By Roberson of Kentucky (by request)—To regulate prosecutions against Indians for crimes committed in the territories

By Findlay of Maryland (by request)—To make gold and silver coin jointly legal tender to authorize the issue of legal tender certificates for half gold coin and half silver coin and to provide that the fund for redeeming treasury notes and that the coin reserves of national banks shall be held one-half in gold coin and one half in silver coin

By Hermann of Oregon—Proposing a constitutional amendment [illegible] election of United States senators by the [illegible] states.

By Randall of Pennsylvania—For the appointment of a commission to represent the United States government [illegible] constitutional centennial commission

By Anderson of Kansas—Calling upon the attorney general for information as to the legal authority under which the directors of the Union Pacific Railroad company consolidated that company with the Kansas Pacific company and the Denver Pacific Railroad company and reorganized the same under the name of the Union Pacific Railroad company

Belmont of New York introduced a bill to protect American vessels against unwarrantable and unlawful discriminations in ports of British North America The bill authorizes the president to prohibit vessels bearing the British flag and coming from such ports, from entering the ports of the United States or from exercising such privileges therein as he may define It also authorizes the president to forbid the entrance by land from the provinces of British North America of all merchandise also of all cars locomotives or other rolling stock of any railway company chartered under the laws of said province

The call of states having been concluded Townshend of Illinois called up as unfinished business the motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill for the protection of innocent purchasers of patent articles

Crisp of Georgia however as a matter of privilege called up the conference report on the interstate commerce bill This action on his part aroused the antagonism of the friends of the patent bill and of the general pension bills which were booked to follow it and Anderson of Kansas raised the question of consideration against the conference report

The house refused yeas 113 nays 1[illegible] to consider the interstate commerce conference report and the house proceeded to vote upon the motion to suspend the rules and pass the bill to limit the jurisdiction of United States courts in patent cases and to protect persons who without notice are bona fide manufacturers purchasers venders and users of patent articles The motion was lost—yeas 80 nays 156

SIX MILLIONS MORE IN PENSIONS

Mr Matson of Indiana, on behalf of the committee on invalid pensions moved to suspend the rules and pass the bill for the relief of dependent parents and honorably discharged soldiers and sailors who are now disabled and dependent upon their own labor for support. Mr Matson stated that the first section of the bill merely changed the evidence required by the pension office and would not cost the government more than $50 000 annually The total number of persons who would be benefited by the second section was estimated at 33 [illegible] and the annual cost to the government would not reach $6,000 000

Morrill of Kansas favored the bill as being a declaration that no old soldier who followed the flag should end his days in the poor house

Springer of Illinois favored the bill as a fair and conservative measure The bill was then passed—yeas 1[illegible] nays 76

It provides that in considering the pension claims of dependent parents the fact and cause of death and the fact that the soldier left no widow or minor children having been shown as required by the law it shall be necessary only to show that such parents are without other present means of support than their own manual labor or the contributions of others not legally bound for their support provided that no pension allowed under this act shall commence prior to its passage,

Section 2 provides that all persons who served three months or more in the military or naval service of the United States in any war in which the United States has been engaged and who have been honorably discharged therefrom and who are now or who may hereafter be suffering from mental or physical disability not the result of their own vicious habits or gross carelessness which incapacitated them from the performance of labor or in such a degree as to render them unable to earn their support and who are dependent upon their daily labor for support, shall upon making due proof of the fact according to such rules and regulations as the secretary of the interior may provide in pursuance of this act be placed on the list of invalid pensioners of the United States and be entitled to receive for such inability to procure their subsistence by daily labor $1[illegible] per month and such pension shall commence from the date of the filing of an application in the pension office upon proof that the disability then existed and continued during the existence of the same in the degree herein provided This act shall not apply to persons under political disability or to any person whose disease was incurred while engaged in military service against the United States

MEXICAN PENSION BILL PASSED

Eldridge, of Michigan, on behalf of the committee on pensions moved that the rules be suspended and the house concur in the senate amendment to the Mexican pension bill The motion to suspend the rules and concur in the senate amendment was agreed to yeas 243 nays 5 The bill now only requires the presidential approval to become a law It provides that a pension of $8 a month shall be paid to all surviving officers and enlisted men including marines, militia and volunteers of the military and naval service of the United States who being only enlisted actually served sixty days with the army or navy of the United States in Mexico or on the coasts or frontier thereof or en route thereto in the war with that nation or were actually engaged in battle in said war and were honorably discharged and to such other officers and soldiers and sailors as may have been personally named in any resolution of congress for any special service in said war and the surviving widows of such officers and enlisted men provided that such widows have not remarried and provided that every such officer enlisted man or widow who is or may become 60 years of age or who is or may become subject to any disability or dependency equivalent to some cause prescribed or recognized by the pension laws of the United States as sufficient reason for the allowance of a pension, shall be entitled to the benefits of this act but it shall not be held to include any person not within the rule of age or disability or dependency herein defined or who incurred such disability while in any manner voluntarily engaged in aiding or abetting the late rebellion against the authority of the United States.

Section 4716 of the revised statutes is repealed so far as it relates to this act or to pensioners under this act Adjourned

SENATE

WASHINGTON Jan 17 —Hoar, from the committee on centennial celebration of the constitution reported a resolution that it is expected that the centennial anniversary of the inauguration of the constitution will be celebrated in April 1889 by an address to be delivered before the president of the United States and the two houses of congress by the chief justice of the United States to which representatives for foreign governments shall be invited, and that the occasion be further celebrated by suitable civic or military observances details to be settled hereafter Adopted

Edmunds called attention to the bill introduced by him and referred to the postoffice committee providing for a government postal telegraph He wished the committee to report it either favorably or unfavorably so that he might try to get the judgment of the senate upon it

The senate bill for the resurvey of certain public lands in Oregon was reported and put on the calendar

The following bills were introduced

By Allison—To authorize the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river at Sioux City Iowa by the Chicago St. Paul Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company

By Walthall—Authorizing the secretary of the treasury to cause the removal of the national quarantine station now located on Ship island in the Gulf of Mexico to some other island in the gulf or such place in the Mississippi delta as may be designated by a board appointed for that purpose and appropriating $[illegible] 000 for the establishment of the necessary buildings and appliances on the new station

By Plumb—To grant a right of way through the Indian territory to the Chicago Fort Scott & Texas Railway company

By Delegate Voorhees of Washington territory —Authorizing the taxation of all railroad property in Washington territory including the right of way of the Northern Pacific Railroad company.

Edmunds offered a resolution making it a standing rule that when a report of a conference committee agreeing with the house conferees shall have been made and be under consideration the first question thereon shall be "shall the senate agree to the same?" And that if the report be not agreed to or if a disagreement be reported the matter shall stand in the same way as if no conference had been had thereon If a conference be asked or agreed to by the senate it shall be in order to instruct the senate conferees referred to the committee on rules

On motion of Sawyer the senate proceeded to consider and pass the pension bills on the calendar Forty pension bills principally house bills were passed and then the pension appropriation bill appropriating $75 000 000 was taken up and passed with only a few immaterial amendments

The army appropriation bill was then taken up The bill was passed with a few unimportant amendments

AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The senate bill to establish agricultural experiment stations in connection with agricultural colleges was taken up as unfinished business

Ingalls characterized the bill as exceedingly crude and imperfect

Vest said that he could not understand the difference between this measure and the Blair educational bill except that one provided for general education and the other for agricultural education Objections to the Blair bill applied with equal force to this bill

Butler said he could see a wide distinction between this bill which he favored, and the Blair bill It was refreshing to hear the sentiments expressed by the senators from Kansas and Missouri after the action of the senate on the oleomargarine bill—destroying one industry at the dictation of another—and on the interstate commerce bill the pleuro pneumonia bill, and the Blair education bill If congress were going on questionable ground he preferred to go in a direction that would be beneficial to farmers. Without action on the bill or any of the pending amendments the senate adjourned

These boards shall conduct examinations for entrance to and promotions in the postal service. No person shall be appointed member of any board of examiners named herein until after consultation by the civil service commissioners with the head of the department or office in which the person whom it desires to appoint is serving

The duties of members of special supplementary local departmental, customs or postal board examiners shall be regarded as part of the public duties of such examiner and each examiner shall be allowed time during office hours to perform the duties required of him The civil service commission shall have authority to draft regulations which shall (1) prescribe the manner of organization of the several boards of civil service examiners herein named, (2.) more particularly state the powers of each of said boards and (3.) specifically define the duties of the members thereof.

IN A MADHOUSE

Mrs Immons Tells of her Incarceration in the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum

WASHINGTON Jan 17 —Mrs Emmons continued her story to-day beginning with her experience at the Bloomingdale asylum When she was taken there Dr Nichols was absent and did not return for nearly a month Meanwhile Dr Brown had tried to make her take medicine, which she believed was doing her harm She deceived her nurse and concealed the medicine and began then to get better Dr Brown discovered that she had not taken it and came to her and said he would make her take it and talked of stomach pumps and things of that kind She said she made up her mind that he could not make her take it

"Well" she went on "he was stronger than I but I made him take one dose of that medicine He took it and I did not see him for three weeks When he came back he was like a cur that had been whipped and knew that he could not do the same thing again"

She said that while in the hospital she tried to forget, or not to hear the shrieks of the people who were really mad, so she tried to amuse and help the poor people around her "That" she said "was called a delusion, a want of appreciation of my position But it was not It was because I did not want to go mad By helping to amuse others I could forget my own trouble"

"At night when I wished to sleep" she went on "I heard the shrieks of those who were really mad and then I decided that I must have sleep or go mad myself" She said that the lights used to be put out at 9 P M In order to have something to occupy her mind she learned to write in the dark She used to write little stories and every kind of nonsense that came into her head

Mrs Emmons then gave an account of her removal to the Butler hospital at Providence her release and her return to Washington

THE LEGISLATURE.

Effort to Prevent Future Appointment of Ring Committees.

SWAMP LAND INVESTIGATION

A Committee to Visit Astoria and Study up the Fishing Interests of the State—Railroad Bills Introduced

SALEM Jan 17 —The most important proceeding in the senate to-day was the discussion by Lee Siglin and Weatherford of Lee's proposition to make the five leading senate committees the judiciary ways and means public lands assessment and taxation and railways elective by ballot. Of course there was no thought of disturbing the arrangement of the present session Mr Lee's idea being simply to establish the elective principle for the convenience of future legislatures with the [illegible] of avoiding the strife and ill feeling which [illegible] out of the fight over organization The discussion was entirely friendly and the [illegible] by Weatherford to postpone was not in order to kill the measure but to give time for further consideration. It will be taken up at a future time but stands small chance of success as it will in all likelihood be opposed by the forces which elected Carson and which hopes to control future legislation as it does this

The bottom facts of the deal made by the ring managers are coming out one at a time It appears that Gray of Clatsop was promised the chairmanship of the commerce committee in consideration of his support for Carson, but after having performed his part of the contract was put off with the federal relations committee for which he cared nothing at all For some cause which will no doubt develop itself in due time It was deemed necessary to give Barin of Clackamas, the commerce chairmanship

In the house the matter of chief interest was respecting the Veatch senate resolution for a joint committee to investigate the swamp land question After a long discussion in which all who took part avowed a wish to see the swamp land question probed to the bottom the resolution was passed By it Senators Dimick of Marion and Wager of Umatilla and Representatives McLean of Klamath Daly of Polk and Hicks of Marion are constituted a special committee to find out and report all the facts respecting the alleged swamp land swindle For the secretary of this committee Hon. T W Davenport is suggested and his appointment is probable There is nothing in the resolution to suggest it but I have the impression that this committee will be empowered to pursue its investigation after the adjournment there being scant time to accomplish the work during the legislative session especially if the gentlemen composing the committee devote any time to general legislative work The committee has been wisely named It is made up of men who can neither be deceived bought nor frightened and the public may look for the bottom facts of what is generally believed to be a prodigious swindle

THE FISHERY INTERESTS

By a joint resolution to-day it was provided that a committee composed of Senators Allen and Wager and Representatives Maxwell, Pomeroy and Bilyeu be charged with the duty of investigating the status and needs of the fishery interests of the state and to report their views to either or both houses. To this committee will be referred all the bills relating to our fishing interests presented in both houses including the proposition to investigate the fish ladder built by the state at Oregon City two years ago Subsequently Gray gave notice in the senate that to-morrow he would introduce a joint resolution to enlarge the committee and to send it with the commerce committees of both houses to Astoria to study this question on the ground also to investigate the management of the state pilot schooner Governor Moody Gray is very enthusiastic over this matter and is likely to carry his point. If the committees are sent as it is proposed they will probably leave here next Friday by the noon train take a special boat at Portland and go through to Astoria Friday night returning to Portland Sunday and to Salem Monday morning

ASSESSMENT AND TAXATION

It has been decided by both houses not to make as proposed last week a special committee to consider the matters of assessment and taxation but to refer all such matters to the senate and house committees on assessment which will act together The members of these committees are as follows Senators Lee Hare Steel Wager and Coleman and Representatives Smith Harris Culver, Daly and Thompson The special committee to consider the question of reappointment has not yet been made but it has been determined in both houses that it shall consist of two republican and two democratic senators and three republican and two democratic representatives This gives the republicans one majority and is considered a very fair arrangement. It has been decided also to appoint a joint committee to consider the recommendations of the governor respecting the Chinese but the committee has not yet been named This is Mr Munger's measure

RAILROAD BILLS

Two new railroad bills were introduced in the senate to-day, one by Wager cutting down freight rates about one-third based upon the schedule of the charges of the O R & N This would scarcely affect the charges on any other road in the state all being now relatively much lower than the O R & N

Irvine introduced a bill providing for a railroad commission modeled on the law of California.

Gray's proposition to detach a row of townships from the western part of Columbia county and attach them to Clatsop county will be bitterly opposed by the Columbia people

OBJECT TO CHANGE OF BOUNDARIES

Mr Flagg, of St Helens who is here to maintain Columbia's claim asserts that but 27 out of 100 voters in the district proposed to be cut off wish the change The townships wanted by Clatsop include the best part of the Nehalem valley and it is not surprising that there is unwillingness to part with them

Dr Watts has introduced in the senate the first liquor bill of the season Its main feature is a $500 license The bill is not intended to apply to incorporated towns and cities

Members of the Multnomah delegation think there will be little trouble in passing the Portland bridge bill over the governor's veto The Multnomah members in both house and senate are solid for the bridge A H

SENATE.

SALEM Jan 17 —The senate met at 2 P M Prayer by the Rev Newell

Lee of the committee on assessments reported H B No 5 amended to read that the committee be composed of the standing committees of the house and senate on assessments making a joint committee carried

Barin offered an amendment to rule four so as to provide that the committee on public lands shall consist of five instead of three members Lee called up his amendment to rule four for consideration It provides for the election by ballot of the committees on judiciary ways and means public lands assessment and railways Lee moved the adoption of his amendment Dimick seconded the motion Lee said it was hardly necessary to make any explanation as the question of committees came up several days ago at which time he stated he would introduce this resolution and did so It was a question how the committees should be appointed There was a demand throughout the country that the committees should be appointed different than at present. The amendment would stop all this wrangle The next presiding officer would understand this when elected

Siglin referred to the plan of appointing committees in the United States senate. The majority of a caucus selected a majority of a committee and the minority of the caucus the minority of the committee There was no place where a committee appointed the committees This plan would throw the election of all committee over to the majority It was better to adopt the plan of the United States senate—that the majority and minority elect and if the majority was republican we would have republican committees and if democratic democratic committees. This was natural The way to take it out of politics was to leave it to the majority and minority

Weatherford said he understood when this resolution was introduced it would be printed for the convenience of the senate He had not seen a copy and therefore moved that it be laid on the table The motion prevailed on the agreement that the question be called up at some future time

BILLS—FIRST READING

THE SWAMP LAND RESOLUTION

Beach's swamp land resolution providing for a joint investigating committee came up from the house and Benjamin moved to adopt Harrington was not ready to vote at this time and moved a postponement until to-morrow The motion was lost

McLean said that there was already one committee on this subject and he thought they might clash Mitchell moved to refer to the committee on public lands Bilyeu thought the plan proposed by Veatch a necessary one and that it ought to be adopted immediately He objected to the motion to refer, because it would delay the matter For the information of the house the resolutions were re-read and the speaker announced that the matter stood on a motion to refer Benjamin and Daly protested the latter declaring that it was the duty of the time to investigate this swamp land question Mitchell explained that he too was in favor of investigation and explained that he made the motion to refer simply that the house might have the necessary information before voting Harrington said that he wanted to refer because he wanted to know just what the resolution meant with whom it originated, and the sentiments of those gentlemen who were named in the resolution as the committee of investigation He was in favor of investigation but wanted to move cautiously and carefully Mr Summers took the same view He wanted to look before he leaped and was opposed to the principle of legislation by committees.

Bowditch said that he knew the men who were named as the investigating committee and knew them to be men eager and capable of getting at the bottom of this swamp land business.

McLean rose to state his position He was in favor of a thorough investigation but he thought two committees pointing to the same thing was a mistake Better one committee than two.

After some further talk the motion to refer was lost 44 to 9 On the motion to adopt the resolutions as they came from the senate the vote stood ayes 50 noes 2 and the resolutions were declared to be adopted

The senate resolution for a joint committee on reapportionment was concurred in

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, JANUARY 18 1887

THE PROPOSED RAILROAD BRIDGE.

Mr. Munger's bill to authorize the O. R. & N company to construct a bridge over the Willamette river between the cities of Portland and East Portland has not hitherto been printed here. It appears in another column of this paper.

The demand for a railway bridge at Portland is general among our citizens. And, since there is an offer on the part of the O R. & N company to build such a bridge, there is a wish almost or quite universal on the part of our people to have the legislature grant the necessary authority

The main point in discussion of the subject is width of draw. In a letter printed to-day some considerations on this subject are presented, followed by an extract from a report of the noted bridge builder, Geo. S. Morison.

THE OREGONIAN participates in the desire and demand of the people for this bridge and yet a condition it would insist upon is this, namely, that the bridge shall be constructed in a manner and upon a plan that will offer as little obstruction to commerce as possible. This condition, of course, requires a "good and sufficient draw." An intelligent opinion could be formed as to what would be "a good and sufficient draw," only by giving the subject some special study. To this end inquiry would be necessary as to bridges elsewhere, and the opinions of men who have given the subject professional attention would have to be consulted.

In general, perhaps we should say, the wider the draw the better, and yet we don't know that this opinion has any real value. Mr Morison, it will be seen, undertakes to give reasons why a draw of 150 feet in width, or even less, would be better for the public than a wider one. Discussion of such a question must necessarily be left in a great degree to specialists, or at least it may be said that from others one should hardly expect very valuable opinions.

These things, however, are certain, viz. Our people want the legislature to authorize the bridge, and the bridge, if built as it should be, and must be, to afford an easy passage for vessels, would be both a convenience and advantage to the entire Northwest, which is interested in having easy ingress and egress here. But the power ought to be reserved to the county court to regulate all tolls across the bridge, including those by rail, which last the Munger bill proposes to except from such regulation. Or, if the legislature can devise any better way to regulate the rates, let it do so. We print a letter from Gen. Tannatt that offers some suggestions on this point, which may well be considered. As we understand it, the O. R. & N company is to build this bridge. Power ought to be reserved by the legislature, or lodged somewhere, to regulate the use of the bridge by other lines

NORMAL SCHOOLS.

Mayor Hill, of Northampton, Mass., in his annual message vigorously denounces the high-school system, because it teaches its graduates chiefly learning that is of little practical importance, so that the graduate is as helpless, as a bread winner, when he leaves school as when he entered it. We quote

He is educated out of all use as a bread earner unless he goes farther and learns to live on the misfortunes of the people as a doctor, the weakness of the people as a lawyer or the sins of the people as a minister. There is occasionally a youth who has started with individuality enough in him not to have it worn out or covered up by the education of to-day with its cramming mental straining qualities but where there is such a one we see fifty who graduate with no other ideas of life than that it owes them a living to be attained without going after it. The graduated youth is ripe for the ideas of speculation or of an easy life and is likely to find his ambition satisfied by doing woman's natural work as a clerk in a dry goods or fancy goods store or he turns up as a defaulter in his mad thoughtless career as a speculator with other people's money. An education that is needed is not founded on the ideas of having an easy time in earning a living, but it should give ambition full sway in the boys' and girls' individual line. We don't need a world full of professional people; we need mechanics with brains, machinists, carpenters, blacksmiths, masons, etc.; we need ambitious farmers who can develop their farms so that they will raise many times what they have raised; we need thoughtful business men of all kinds, all of which classes our present schools do not greatly assist.

The little state of Vermont, with but 330,000 people, contributes $15,000 annually to the support of the normal schools, and yet the graduates form but an insignificant per cent of the teachers of the state and not many remain in the state after the time required by law has expired. The leading newspapers of the state reiterate the complaint of the Massachusetts' mayor that what is sorely needed is more thorough instruction in common English branches blended with some instructive training of the hand and eye, so that a man can at least make a chicken coop or bang a door. It is further set forth that it is no proper part of a public school system to impart a classical, professional or merely ornamental education, and this is only saying what every great scholar and teacher has said from Edward Everett to Huxley, Tyndall, Spencer, President Eliott and the great Oxford classical scholar Professor Jowett. Edward Everett's son with his approval became a veterinary surgeon, for Everett heartily despised a system of public school education which treats every boy as a presumptive lawyer, doctor or preacher, and every girl as the presumptive sultana of a literary millionaire's court or the organizer and queen bee of the local branch of the Chautauqua association. The protest of those who sympathize with these criticisms of the popular high school system is not that the public schools cost too much, but "that the money should be expended for a different education: that now the colleges dominate the whole system and from the primary department up every pupil is trained as though in preparation for college. Let the system, rather be based upon the assumption that none are going to college and the result will be, in our judgment, as it was under the old academy system, that most of those who ought to get a liberal education will do so in some way and those who ought not to will not have it thrust upon them when something else is a great deal better adapted to their needs."

A NECESSARY MEASURE

The interstate commerce bill does not prohibit the railroads from charging a higher rate per mile for local than for through traffic, or compel them to make short distance charges proportionate to those for long distances on the same line. As explained by Senator Cullom, it only prohibits a higher aggregate charge for the shorter than for the longer distance. Senator Cullom further pointed out that the effect of this prohibition was controlled and modified by the provision giving the commission discretion to relieve any railroad from its operation in any special case that investigation proved to be one of inadvisable hardship. Cullom pointed out that the qualification "under substantially similar circumstances and condition would virtually prevent the application of the prohibition to the bulk of local traffic. It would prevent unfair discrimination between places in local traffic, and also in through traffic. It means, for instance, that if a car load of grain is taken from St. Paul to New York at a certain rate a higher rate shall not be charged from Chicago or from Buffalo than for the whole distance from those points. It would not prevent any railroad from charging precisely the same amount from the intermediate points."

Of course there are railroads that would sometimes suffer injustice under the general provisions of the bill, but the commission is clothed with ample discretionary power to grant relief, and on the general plea of the public weal the great railroad managers ought not to be left wholly without some public supervision and restraint. Ex-Governor Hoadly writes to the New York Evening Post that the bill is not needed, because the courts in Ohio have shown themselves fully able to deal with cases of unjust discrimination without the aid of federal legislation. The New York Times makes answer that these Ohio decisions are not more likely to stand the test of appeal to the U. S supreme court than the Illinois case, in which the U S supreme court "reversed the state's decision upon the ground that the regulation of rates for transportation from one state to another or through several states should be caused by a national law. Moreover, a state law forbidding unjust discrimination has been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court of North Carolina. Can shippers be protected in Ohio and at the same time be deprived of protection in other states where laws for their protection have been enacted?"

A CURIOUS QUARREL

The death of Gen Wm B Hazen recalls the curious fact that Hazen a few years ago was the subject of a military court of inquiry, which was forced upon him by Gen. D S. Stanley, who specifically charged Hazen with cowardice at the battle of Shiloh. This charge was made publicly by Stanley at every opportunity, and in his letters to Hazen, in which he denounced him as a coward and a liar. Gen Sherman, who highly esteemed both of these eminent soldiers, tried in vain to compose the quarrel, but Stanley refused to retract, and the result was a court of inquiry at Governor's Island, in which the curious spectacle was witnessed of Stanley, distinguished for daring in battle, charging Hazen, who had served with him at the West, with gross cowardice, although Hazen's official record is that of an officer who was rapidly promoted for gallantry, and had been once wounded in action. Stanley at the court of inquiry produced evidence that Hazen was separated from his brigade at the battle of Shiloh, and did not rejoin it until the action was over. Hazen's subsequent service was so excellent as to commend him highly to Rosecrans, Grant and Sherman, and it is impossible to believe that an officer destitute of personal courage could have won uniform credit for skill and good conduct from all his commanders. And yet it is not necessary to suppose that Gen Stanley, who was distinguished for dashing courage and ability in action, and more than once wounded, uttered a charge that he knew or believed to be false. The evidence produced by Stanley went far to show that Hazen did not do himself justice at Shiloh. It was the first great battle he had ever seen, he entered it with his brigade at a critical moment, when our troops were disordered and badly cut up, and he probably did get "rattled" and lose his head under the new and strange scene of extraordinary panic. A number of officers and men, belonging to green regiments behaved badly that day that Grant says were distinguished for superior fighting quality in every subsequent engagement. The "touch-of-the-elbow" panic sometimes sweeps away veteran troops. There is the notable case of the crack division of the French army that did the best fighting and won the day at Solferino in 1859. This veteran division went into panic and ran several miles to Brescia at the sight of a troop of Austrian cavalry that rose up suddenly out of tall grass where they had been hiding for two days until forced by hunger to come forth and surrender. Napoleon and Wellington said that the bravest soldiers did not always do their reputation for courage the same justice at all times. Surprise, a broken condition of body or mind, sometimes makes a good soldier fall short of his general standard of good behavior. Probably Hazen did get swept away in a moment of universal panic, but he repaired his reputation nobly in his subsequent career. Stanley did not lie about Hazen, but he hated him and was not ready charitably to concede with Napoleon and Wellington that even a good soldier does not always manifest unflinching "two o'clock in the morning courage." Stanley and Hazen were both from Ohio. Stanley was graduated from West Point in 1852. Hazen in 1855. When the war broke out Hazen was a captain in the Eighth infantry, while Stanley was a captain in the Fourth cavalry. Stanley rose rapidly; he was a major general in November 1862 when Hazen was but a brigadier. Stanley was commander of the Fourth Army corps at the fall of Atlanta, and saved the day at Franklin, leaving his sick bed to lead a charge and returning to it desperately wounded. Since the war Hazen has got on faster than Stanley through the political influence of McLean of the Cincinnati Enquirer, and of Gen Sherman and his brother John, and probably Stanley has been somewhat soured by the spectacle of Hazen getting to be a brigadier general and having a "soft place" in the Signal Bureau. Hazen was an intelligent and accurate writer on military science, and his book on the German Franco war is a very interesting and valuable monograph.

A few years ago the New York assembly considered the question of the taxation of corporations. It was shown that the life insurance companies with capital and assets of $200,000,000, paid no personal tax whatever, the money being invested in United States bonds. These companies were taxed on real estate, however, at a valuation of over $20,000,000. The fire and marine insurance companies, with over $70,000,000 of capital and assets, paid personal taxes to the amount of $250,000, and on a real estate valuation of about $1,550,000 paid a little over $40,000 in taxes. Railroad companies having about $140,000,000 capital paid about $100,000 on personal property valued at nearly $4,000,000 and about $140,000 on real estate valued at about $5,100,000. Trust companies having about $11,000,000 capital paid a little more than $25,000 personal taxes, but nothing on real estate. Other corporations aggregating a capital over $212,000,000 paid a personal tax of $300,000 on a valuation of some $14,000,000. Non resident corporations having over $10,000,000 aggregate capital paid $20,000 personal taxes on a valuation of $785,000. Seven hundred miscellaneous corporations, with an aggregate capital of $170,000,000, paid no taxes, although properly liable to be taxed $1,000,000. The local taxes on real and personal property in New York city at this time was about $30,000,000 on about $1,100,000,000 of assessed valuation. Corporations owning nearly $800,000,000 capital and personal property paid as tax only about $901,000, when they really should pay about $21,000,000. Whether things are any better in New York city to-day than they were seven years ago, we do not know, but there is probably little improvement.

BRIDGING THE WILLAMETTE

PORTLAND Jan 17 18

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

To some of your readers it may be both interesting and instructive to know that the river Thames at London is not larger than the Willamette at Portland and yet London is the greatest port of arrival and departure in the world. No one simply passing up and down the Thames can form more than a shadowy idea of the extent and importance of the port of London for the reason that its docks where foreign going vessels are loaded and unloaded are vast excavations surrounded by gigantic warehouses lying back from the river. Such are the East India, the West India, the St Catharine and other docks. Imagine Couch or Goulds take laid off in such manner as to represent a number of large blocks and that solid warehouses occupy the places of streets and deep water the places of blocks of land that there are openings from block to block to permit the ingress and egress of vessels that to each of these docks there is one main entrance from the river and that the largest vessels afloat enter and discharge cargo and load in them then you have a fair idea of a great London dock. The passage from the river to the docks is between walls of solid masonry the passages are inclosed by heavy flood gates. I think I am correct in saying that none of the passages are more than seventy feet wide and every vessel entering them has to stand athwart the stream to make the passage. However as there is a very strong tidal current in the Thames the most favorable time for entering and leaving the docks is chosen. I have mentioned these things merely because so much has been said and written by interested obstructionists about the width of draws. I think if any pilot on the Columbia cannot undertake to haul a vessel with safety through a 150 foot draw in any ordinary stage of water in the Willamette he ought to be given a vacation with leave to return when he is through his illness. THE PROPOSED RAILROAD BRIDGE.

PORTLAND, Jan 17, 1887

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

Why is there any objection to allowing the Oregon Railway & Navigation company to construct a bridge across the Willamette river at Portland?

Is it because the building of a bridge means the additional investment of large sums of money in the construction of a depot and other terminal facilities at the north end of the city of Portland, which mill owners and the south end had hoped to have located further south? Or is it because it may reduce the revenue at present received by the Stark Street Ferry company? Or is it because the Oregon & California Railroad company which already has a charter from the United States to construct a bridge across the Willamette river, should be allowed to participate in the benefits to be derived from this bridge without furnishing any capital for its construction?

From a general business standpoint, it would seem that the whole city of Portland, even the millowners in the southern portion of the city, even the Stark Street Ferry, even the Oregon & California Railroad company will be immensely benefited by the building of the contemplated bridge whereby passengers can be landed in the city of Portland, and can depart from the city of Portland, and whereby freight can be both delivered and forwarded several days quicker than under the present circumstances. It would also appear that it would be desirable to have passenger and freight facilities in the city of Portland but without a bridge to reach those facilities it would be useless to construct them and without those facilities the present methods of transportation which involve a long delay in getting to and from East Portland on a ferry boat greatly to the inconvenience of passengers will have to be continued. It would also seem from a general business standpoint that it would be beneficial to the city to have the vast amount of money expended here which will be required to build this bridge and the terminal facilities. The railway company is only interested in the same way that the people are interested in it that is in saving time in the receiving and forwarding of freight and relieving the inconvenience to passengers. Although the company will receive no more for its passenger fares and freight charges, it is yet willing to expend many hundreds of thousands of dollars in this work which amount will largely be distributed among the laboring classes employed in the construction but it finds, when it asks the legislature to authorize the work, that these insignificant objections are raised.

Nearly twenty years ago the town of Leavenworth in the state of Kansas was a prosperous and influential city and was the distributing point of that whole state. About that time the little town on the Missouri river called Kansas City was endeavoring to rival the important town of Leavenworth, although it was laboring under the disadvantage of being located in the state of Missouri. Mr Jas. F Joy who was at that time the controlling power in the Chicago Burlington & Quincy and Hannibal & St Joseph Railroad companies, conceived the idea of building a bridge across the Missouri river at Kansas City whereby he could take the freight and passengers into the city proper without transferring them on barges, which was the practice at that time. The bridge was completed in 1868 and the fact is acknowledged by all parties familiar with the situation that the building of the bridge was the main cause for the subsequent prosperity of Kansas City. The population and business done in these two cities to-day shows what the result was.

Tacoma is in a similar situation to Kansas City of twenty years ago. The people of Portland ridicule the idea of Tacoma being its competitor in commercial affairs. The Northern Pacific road will in a very few months, be completed making a through line from the East into the city of Tacoma. I hardly think it is worth while for the people of Oregon, and city of Portland in particular, to follow the footsteps of the city of Leavenworth but it should encourage in every way the building of the bridge and the creating of the facilities before referred to. It is an unprecedented case where a corporation is anxious to create benefits that there should be the slightest objection made. As a rule such benefits are generally received by the public not only without objection but with gratitude, and it is undoubtedly the case here that a very large majority of the people of the state of Oregon and the city of Portland are as anxious to have these facilities created as the Oregon Railway & Navigation company is to create them.

Mr Geo S Morison probably the highest authority on bridges in the United States visited Portland last summer for the purpose of examining, and reporting as to the feasibility of a railroad and general traffic bridge across the Willamette at this point and as to the character of a bridge required and proper to be built. Mr Morison made a careful personal examination of the subject, keeping in view the harbor and navigation interests of the river. From that part of his report which treats of the width of the draws proper in a bridge here I append an extract. The suggestions made in the extract commend themselves to men of practical knowledge. Mr Morison is not in the service of the O. R & N Co and had no interest in his special employment except to arrive at the truth of the matter he was required to investigate. The bridge at Kansas City above referred to was built under his direction. All the most important bridges built since then in this country have been built in accordance with plans furnished by him. His acknowledged engineering skill in this line entitles his conclusions upon the question of bridge and draws at Portland to very considerable weight. PROGRESS

EXTRACT FROM A REPORT BY MR MORISON.

As to the proper width of draw opening for the bridge across the Willamette river, it seems to me that the conditions resemble more closely those of bridges across the Chicago river than any others which I know of. The bridges are opened continually a great many times a day and the clear opening is about 100 feet and they are so fitted as to be handled with extraordinary rapidity. On the Mississippi river bridges have generally been built with draws of 160 feet openings but these draws are opened only a few times a day and the class of boats passing through them is very different from those which navigate either the Chicago river or the Willamette river.

It has appeared to me that for the Willamette river at Portland a bridge with openings not exceeding 125 feet with pile fenders along each opening so that if a vessel passing through struck anything it would strike a soft wooden fender which would do no harm and with machinery on the draw which would enable it to be opened within the smallest possible time, would accommodate both the railroad and navigation interests better than a bridge with longer openings. A towboat with a ship alongside, would seldom be more than seventy feet in width, which in an opening of 125 feet would leave nearly thirty feet clear space on each side. Out of deference to the desires of the people who are interested in the navigation of the Willamette river I should be willing to have this draw opening increased to 150 feet but my candid judgment is that 125 feet openings would really be better for the public. The longer the draw openings of course, the longer the draw and the pile protection work to guide the vessel along through the draw ought to be a little longer than the draw itself. With openings of 125 feet the draw would be about 280 feet long and the pile protection would be 300 feet up and down stream; with openings of 150 feet the draw would be 340 feet long and the pile protection work would extend up and down stream 360 feet; with longer draw openings the length of the protection work would be proportionately increased.

The effect of increasing the length of the draw openings is to increase the time which it takes to open and close the draw. Of course it gives more room for a vessel to pass and increases the time which it takes a vessel to pass through the draw because the length of the passage way along the pile protection is increased and if the bridge is built as a wagon bridge it increases also the time required to get the draw clear of vehicles before it may be turned. * * * *

Taking all these things into consideration I think that a draw opening of 175 feet as has been suggested would be unnecessarily cumbersome and would not accommodate the shipping interests as well as one with openings of only 150 feet. Further more the weight of the long draw and the [illegible] of it would be so great that I should recommend in that case building the bridge only as a railroad bridge, and omitting the road way floor.

I know of but two draws in America, namely the one at Louisiana on the Mississippi and the one on the Raritan river on the Long Branch division of the Central railroad of New Jersey in which the openings exceed 160 feet. In these two bridges the openings are 200 feet. In both of these cases the length was required because large fleets of very frail boats were frequently towed through them, a condition which does not exist on the Willamette river. On navigable waters on the coast the draws are generally very much shorter; the draws in and around Boston generally having an opening of only forty two feet. Very truly yours, GEO S MORISON

THE RAILROAD BRIDGE

Following is the bill introduced in the legislature on the 11th inst by Mr Munger of Multnomah for an act to authorize construction of a railway bridge at this city

SECTION 1. That it shall be lawful for the Oregon Railway & Navigation company a corporation duly incorporated under the laws of the state of Oregon or its assigns and that said corporation its successors and assigns be and it or they are hereby authorized and empowered to construct, build, maintain and use, or to cause to be constructed, built, maintained and used, a bridge across the Willamette river between the cities of Portland and East Portland in Multnomah county in the state of Oregon for the purpose of travel or commerce as a railroad, wagon road and passenger bridge and to charge fares and tolls thereon. Said bridge to be constructed at a point to be selected and determined by said company or its assigns between the south line of F street and the north line of the tract known as the Distillery tract in Couch's addition to the city of Portland upon the west side of the river and a point on the east side of the river opposite thereto and to have suitable proper and convenient approaches to such point or location on both sides of said river. Said bridge to be constructed of iron and stone, or of iron, wood and stone and shall be deemed a lawful structure; provided that there shall be placed in such bridge a draw leaving a passage through said bridge of not less than 150 feet in width in the clear and so constructed as to allow the easy passage of vessels through said bridge; provided further that said bridge shall be so constructed and built as not to obstruct or unnecessarily injuriously affect the navigation of said river.

SEC 2. The said corporation or its assigns are hereby authorized and empowered to make such rules and regulations for the care, maintenance and use of said bridge as it or they may deem to be just and reasonable, except that the county court of Multnomah county is hereby authorized to fix, alter and establish from time to time the rates of toll to be charged by such corporation or its assigns, for the passage of footmen, vehicles and ordinary travel other than by rail.

SEC 3. That on the filing of an acceptance of the terms of this act by said corporation, in the office of the secretary of state, signed by its president and attested by its secretary, and entering into an agreement with the state of Oregon that in the construction of said bridge none but white labor shall be employed, which agreement shall be filed with the secretary of state, and the entrance upon the construction of said bridge in good faith by said corporation, or its assigns, the rights hereby granted shall be deemed a vested, granted franchise.

SEC 4. All acts or parts of acts either general or special so far as they to any extent conflict with this act are hereby repealed

THE RAILROAD BRIDGE.

WALLA WALLA, Jan. 17th, 1887

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

The letter of Mr R Koehler in your issue of the 15th inst, hints at points connected with the construction of a railroad bridge at Portland worthy of the most careful examination by the members of your legislature and the people of Oregon and Washington territory.

Mr Koehler is a railroad man of long years of experience with the first line of railway to Portland. Speaking as the representative of a financially weak railway he in shadowing the danger to his own line, speaks for the people and the entire commercial interest of your state and this territory. Mr Koehler knows that railway bridge companies throughout the United States are separate and apart from the railroad companies terminating at points where those bridges are needed and, unrestricted, their rates for passenger and freight traffic are excessive and arbitrary beyond the power of the railway companies to measure or correct.

For example the railroad bridge at Omaha. The toll added to each through ticket East or West has been 25 cents. Holders of exchange annual passes over all lines pay in common with the passengers' 25 cents toll, or more than the railway charge for fifteen times the distance.

In making up through East and West passenger tariffs those arbitrary rates are added. Bridge companies do not pro rate. The same applies to freight, transfer of through cars etc.

To meet this demand at Omaha and Council Bluffs passengers have been for years subjected to rechecking and reweighing of baggage.

Examination will show that those bridge companies are made up of the high officials of railroad lines centering where bridges are required and that the enormous earnings coming from the people drop into the pockets of the railway officers not the stockholders.

The need of a railway bridge at Portland or its effect upon trade are not subjects of present consideration. It is safe to say that when one is constructed the interests of the bridge company and those of navigation will prevent a second structure.

The question remains, will the legislature of Oregon impose a lasting burden upon the people and commerce of this section by granting to any single corporation the right to collect excessive tolls on passengers and freight and hold weaker or new railroads from unrestricted connection with your city? Forced to the issue by popular clamor our national and state legislation seeks to relax the grip of monopolies.

If needed, let this railway bridge company be so restricted in its charges for passengers, freight and car transfer that it shall not exceed the average mileage rates of railroad lines in the state or such mileage rates as the legislature may fix for railroad lines.

Provide rates at which all railway lines may have use of the bridge.

The people of this inland empire are waiting for the dawn of a day that will give them the Columbia river an unobstructed highway for commerce. The resources of this empire of production will in time create railroad lines on both sides of the Columbia. Oregon as a state, and Portland as a city stand where the blessings of commerce cannot escape them whether flowing from the headwaters of the Columbia or Snake rivers.

The national government can no longer turn a deaf ear to the demands of this Northwest country or content its people with plans and models of construction. The way will be cleared and that speedily.

What benefits one section tends to enrich the others. Oregon cannot through error afford the erection of any local toll gates under which the people of any part of the country must stoop to pass. Portland may well weigh the question of unobstructed navigation of the Willamette with an open Columbia in the near future.

When the railroad bridge is completed the people and all railroad lines should be in the same boat paying regular mileage rates.

Answer will be made that one mile of bridge costs many miles of railway. True, and upon that one mile of bridge will accumulate the mileage earnings of thousands of miles of railway.

T R TANNATT

SALEM NOTES

Misses Bettie Pordi[illegible] and Maggie M[illegible] of [illegible] are visiting Misses [illegible] and [illegible] Webb.

At a meeting of the Baptist Home Missionary board for the state of Oregon held in Salem last week Rev G J Burchett now pastor of the Baptist church of McMinnville was elected general secretary for the Home missions in the state. The gentleman has telegraphed his acceptance and will enter upon his work very soon. This position has been held by Rev J C Baker who is soon to be transferred to another field.

The case of the state of Oregon vs. Nelson Dilley and Henry Johns convicted and sentenced to fifteen and five years respectively in the penitentiary at the last term of the circuit court for this county says the Statesman has been appealed to the supreme court, and will be argued on next Thursday. These are the two young men who entered the Chinese camp near Gervais last fall and stole a small sum of money and shot a Chinaman. They are now in the penitentiary and the chances are that they will stay there.

With the retirement of Gov Moody R P Earhart ate secretary of state tendered his resignation as adjutant general of the state to Gov. Pennoyer. Mr Earhart's successor has not yet been named. The law makes it incumbent on the secretary of state to keep the military records yet he could not properly be considered the head of military correspondence without an appointment as adjutant general and Gov Moody therefore commissioned him as such officer. There is a great deal of hard work connected with the duties of this office but no pay, and the militia of the state feel under very great obligations to Mr Earhart whose efforts have so often and continuously been directed towards its improvement and advancement.

A JUDGMENT SET ASIDE

Judge Deady Decrees that a Judgment in Favor of the Wife of X E Burns a Bankrupt, was Fraudulent and Void.

In the U S circuit court yesterday Judge Deady made a decree in the case of the London and San Francisco bank vs. Burns and others setting aside the judgment in favor of Mrs. Burns. The facts in this case are as follows: On August 13 1886 X. E. Burns and Walter Burns were dealers in lamps and glassware here and they confessed a judgment in the state circuit court in favor of L. Burns, their brother in San Francisco, for $[illegible], and also a judgment in favor of Mrs. [illegible] Stewart Burns, the wife of X. E. Burns, for the sum of $14,290 63. An execution was issued on both judgments on the same day, and the property of the defendants X. E. Burns and Walter Burns was levied upon, which is admitted to be worth not over $20,000. On the following day, August 14, the London and San Francisco bank commenced an action in the state circuit court to recover a balance of account from Burns & Co of [illegible] and soon after brought suit in equity against the plaintiffs and defendants in these confessions of judgments to restrain them from selling the property on execution and to have the judgments set aside as fraudulent and void. The defendants thereupon removed the suit to the U. S. circuit court where the case was heard and tried on the evidence.

From this it appears that early in 1885 X. E. Burns married his present wife in California, a young woman who had inherited about $40,000 from her father. His elder brother I. R. Burns was in the wholesale lamp and glassware business, and agent for Eastern manufacturers of such goods, and another brother C. O. Burns was in the lamp and glassware business at Stockton, Cal., and soon after his marriage X. E. Burns obtained $6500 from his wife and put it into business with his brother at Stockton. Near the close of 1885 he drew out of the Stockton business taking his brother's note (C. O. Burns) for $7041 81 payable in three years at [illegible] per cent. X. E. Burns and his wife claimed that instead of paying back what he got from her, he gave her a Christmas present of this note.

In the fall of 1885 Walter Burns was here in partnership with Figg and McCormick taking orders for lamps etc. The Burnses claim that about the end of 1885 X. E. and Walter began to talk of buying out McCormick and Figg and going into business here with the result as they claim, that Mrs. Burns concluded to loan them $15,000 to go into business with them, being responsible as a firm for it, and also for the $7041 81 which C. O. Burns owed her.

X. E. and Walter commenced business here January 11, 1886, Figg and McCormick going out.

It is admitted on all hands that Mrs. Burns did give her husband $15,000 and it is also admitted that he paid out $9[illegible] of that sum in San Francisco on individual debts. It is admitted that the remaining $[illegible] was brought up here and put into the business. It is claimed by the Burnses that it was put in by X. E. and Walter and that they are both liable to Mrs. Burns for it. But the books of the concern show that it was put in by X. E. Burns, and he was credited with it in his capital stock. There was no written evidence to show any transaction between husband and wife or between her and the firm, except this entry on the books of the firm, which showed that this capital was advanced by X. E. Burns and not by the firm. The court ruled that in transactions between husband and wife to the prejudice of creditors the burden of proof was on the former to show the honesty of the same, and found that Mrs. Burns had no claim against the firm at all for any part of the $15,000 which it was alleged they had undertaken to pay to her. But she had a claim against her husband for $10,000 which being an individual debt the property of the firm was not liable for till the debts of the firm were paid and therefore set the judgment in her favor against the firm aside as fraudulent and void. The debt for which judgment was confessed in favor of I. R. Burns was held to be a bona fide debt.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

DEFAULTER'S WIFE SUES FOR DIVORCE.—Yesterday, Mrs. Annie W. Dixon, wife of C. P. Dixon, the defaulting agent of the Canadian Pacific, began suit in the state circuit court for a divorce and the right to assume her maiden name. They were married in Baltimore, Maryland, October, 1883. Plaintiff accuses Dixon of having begun a system of cruel and inhuman treatment toward her soon after their marriage, and that every week or two he would come home drunk and use abusive language to her. Gradually his abuse became more frequent, and during the months of September, October and November, 1886, he went so far as to have a low jinks performance at his home two or three times per week. Complainant further avers that in the month of December, 1886, he sent postal cards to her through the mails, accusing her of unchaste conduct, which he knew to be false. She recites the fact of his having misappropriated money belonging to the company, fled the country to avoid punishment for a grave crime and left her destitute of all means of support, and compelling her to rely on strangers for charity. Plaintiff states that when she last heard from Dixon he was in Victoria, B. C., but that he is now in some other part of the British possessions or Canada, the exact place being unknown to her; therefore she asks that a summons for his appearance to defend the suit, if he so desires, be published in a newspaper.

REMARKABLE ESCAPE FROM DROWNING.—A Seattle exchange tells the following remarkable story: On Thursday last Judge Vrooman went to the penitentiary, on McNeil's island, on business, and, anxious to return to Seattle, on yesterday engaged three men to row him out to meet the Emma Hayward. When opposite the island the boat was run into by the Hayward and capsized, the three boatmen being promptly rescued, but Judge Vrooman sank beneath the waves and in some unaccountable way became fastened to the hull of the Hayward and was in this perilous position for fully twenty minutes. The movement of the boat about the water while searching for the missing gentleman loosened him from his dilemma and on coming to the surface he was seized by the boat's crew and for a long time the most strenuous exertions were made to bring the now insensible gentleman to life again. He was rolled on a barrel and other expedients resorted to, and finally, by the time the Hayward arrived in Seattle, at 10 P. M., the judge had recovered sufficiently to be taken to his residence, where he now lies, weak and exhausted from his narrow escape from a watery grave.

A LOST BOAT THAT DID GOOD SERVICE.—A correspondent to the Chehalis Valley Vidette, at Aberdeen, W. T., tells the following interesting story: "J. West had a valuable boat built, at a cost of $80. One evening about a month ago Crist. Damitio took the boat to cross the Wishkah river, but he lost his paddle, deserted his boat and clung to a pile at Waldron's wharf, when his lusty cries soon brought assistance. In the darkness of the night the boat was lost. The next day an Indian found it on the beach at the entrance of the harbor and took it up the coast. Next day the Chilian bark was driven ashore by a storm at sea, and the Indians, considering their canoes unsafe, took Mr. West's boat and rescued fifteen sailors from their perilous position in the rigging of the vessel. Mr. West has just received his boat back in good condition, after the above adventures."

REOPENING THIRD STREET.—There have been several inquiries in regard to the present status of the proposed extension or reopening of North Third street through the grounds of the Northern Pacific Terminal company. While the committee on streets were discussing plans for pushing this proposed extension, a large delegation of responsible citizens waited upon them and prayed them not to be too hasty in the matter, as if the railroad company obtained the right to bridge the river the Union depot would be speedily built, and probably the Villard hotel completed. The committee and several other members of the council were subsequently waited upon, and agreed that the proposed extension should be laid aside till the legislature had decided whether it would allow a railroad bridge to be built here or not.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.—Last Thursday afternoon Heron Blair, a young man, was engaged with others in driving logs down La Camas creek for the La Camas Lumbering company. He was riding a log, and when he struck a place of very swift current about fifteen miles back of the town, he fell into the water in the midst of the drive. A young man named Froebstel, one of his comrades, ran to his assistance, and had caught one of Blair's hands, and was about to pull him up, when two logs came together, catching Blair's head between them. Death was almost instantaneous, though the outward bruises did not seem severe. Blair was 16 years old, and was the son of farmer Jasper Blair, an old resident of Clark county.

DISSATISFIED WITH AN AWARD.—The children who competed for the prize offered for the largest number of words made from the letters composing Laura Biggar's name, are not satisfied with the award. They say that no public announcement was made of the highest number of words, but that after the performance one of the young ladies was requested by the manager to remain after the audience had dispersed, and received the prize, having, it was said in the crowd, presented a list of about 300 words. Webster's unabridged dictionary, latest edition, contains only about 150 words which come up to the conditions, and the children say it was a "put up job."

ANOTHER EVANGELIST.—Geo. Robert Cairns, the singing evangelist, who is now conducting a most successful series of meetings at Colfax, W. T., will arrive in this city the last of the week to aid in the special services now in progress at the Baptist church. Mr. Cairns is a sweet gospel singer and an effective Christian worker. His work in Colfax has been so remarkable that half the people could not get into the largest auditorium in the place. His work here will probably begin with Saturday or Sunday, until which time the meeting will be carried forward by the pastor and his people.

TUNNEL CITY CONTEMPT CASES.—The cases of the liquor sellers before Judge Hoyt upon an attachment for contempt, for violating an injunction heretofore issued in behalf of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, restraining a number of saloon-keepers from selling intoxicating liquors at Tunnel City, W. T., came up for hearing on Saturday. After a spirited legal fight between McNaught, for the N. P. R. R., and Snively, of North Yakima, for the defendants, the court decides to fine three of the defendants $5 each for selling liquor pending the injunction.

ANOTHER SUIT AGAINST OWENS.—D. M. Osborne & Co., through C. J. Reed, agent, commenced suit in the U. S. circuit court yesterday against George Weaver, administrator of the will of Hans Weaver, to collect two promissory notes of $312 each, given by W. F. Owens as agent for the Grange Business association in Douglas county, in which Weaver was a partner. The notes were written: "I or either of us promise to pay," and signed by W. F. Owens as agent. This is another of the interminable list of suits arising from the defalcations of Owens.

FOUR YEARS' SENTENCE.—In the state circuit court yesterday morning Judge Stearns denied the motion for a new trial in the case E. T. Barnett, convicted of robbing his partner, G. DeWolf, of $2200 in British bank notes, and converting them to his own use. The court sentenced the prisoner to be confined for the period of four years in the penitentiary. After the sentence counsel for Barnett asked for a stay of execution as he desired to bring the matter before the superior court to test the jurisdiction of the state circuit court to try the case.

LATEST UNITED STATES MAP.—Hon. W. A. J. Sparks, commissioner of the general land office, has just issued a large map of the United States with adjacent portions of Canada and Mexico, with Cuba down in the right lower corner. It is about five by six feet, and shows all railroads, canals, Indian and military reservations, and is compiled from official surveys in the general land office. Because it is the latest it is now the most valuable map issued by the government.

INSURANCE ELECTION.—Yesterday the stockholders of the Oregon Fire and Marine Insurance company held their annual meeting in the office of the company and elected the following directors: Henry Failing, H. W. Corbett, W. S. Ladd, C. H. Lewis, S. G. Reed, J. Loewenberg, L. White, J. W. Cook, J. K. Gill. Officers will be chosen this week.

NEW GRAND JURY.—Yesterday morning in department No. 2 Judge Stearns swore in the new grand jury. The jurors are: Messrs. M. Taylor, J. Sorenson, M. C. Gilham, S. B. McBride, John Clark, C. W. Fay, and W. R. Sewall, foreman. Before the jury retired Judge Stearns read them the law bearing upon libel and prize fighting.

CONCORDIA CLUB ELECTION.—Last night the Concordia club held its annual election, when the following officers were chosen: President, Ben Selling; vice-president, N. Baum; secretary, J. Silverstone; treasurer, Ed. Bernheim; trustees, L. Fleischner, Ad. Wolfe, Emil Frank, A. Bissinger, Ed. Ehrman and F. R. Mellis.

KILLED BY A YOUNG GIRL.

A Columbia River Fisherman Shot Dead while Trying to Drive a Family Out of Home.

Last Friday night Emma Frishkorn, a girl aged 15, shot and killed Peter Gunderson, near Clifton, about twenty miles above Astoria. Gunderson is a fisherman, and has been engaged during the winter in knitting nets. Henry Frischkorn, with his wife and two daughters, Minnie, aged 22 and Emma, rented a house some time ago near Clifton. Gunderson is said to have paid the rent and was taking it out in board for himself and Julius Oodby, a companion. The latter wanted to marry the younger daughter, and Gunderson the older. Early last week Gunderson asked Minnie to become his wife and she refused, giving as a reason that she had heard he was cruel and already had a wife and children. The information, she said, came from her mother. He became angry. The next day he was very abusive to the old folks. On Thursday the whole Frishkorn family were invited to a dance at Thompson's, over on the island. The girls went, and shortly afterward Gunderson came in and drove the old folks out of the house. They fled in great fear to their daughter's at Thompson's. On Friday night the Frishkorn family came back with friends from Thompson's, and entered their house at the west door. Oodby was sitting down, playing an accordion, and Gunderson was standing at one of the east windows. He said, "Who brought all these sons of —— here?" He started for the table in the center of the room and picked up a knife. The father stood in the door, the mother went toward a door at the northwest, the older girl walked toward where Gunderson stood at the table with the knife in his hand, and began to talk to him. Oodby went to an upper room, got a pistol and went back to his corner. The younger girl had on Monday loaded a double barreled gun to shoot a shag, but the shag was too far away and she put the gun back in the closet, and taking out the shells put them on the shelf.

When, on returning Friday night with her father, mother and sister, and seeing Gunderson advance and pick up the knife, she slipped into the closet, put the shells into the gun and stood in the door. Minnie tried to get Gunderson to put the knife down, when he suddenly turned, motioned to Oodby and made a dash at Minnie; as he did, Oodby fired. As he fired, Emma fired at him and missed him, the shots imbedding in the window frame. Then, wheeling, she fired at Gunderson, the charge striking him in the top of the head. He fell with his head under the west window and almost immediately died. The older daughter and the father and mother ran out and down to the wharf. Oodby ran also. The concussion of the shots blew the two lights out. Emma made a dash in the dark for the north door, and finding it barred wrenched it open and ran to the wharf, white and trembling, and after being quieted down, the horror-stricken party went over to Thompson's, returning Saturday morning. The father, mother, two sisters, Oodby, the dead man in the coffin, and the others were brought to Astoria.

Coroner Ross had been summoned by telegraph, and went to the scene. He summoned a jury, who returned a verdict that Gunderson came to his death as above related. He was 32 years old and a native of Norway.

Sheriff Ross arrested Oodby, and detained one Foster as a witness. The girl was not arrested, but the matter will be brought this week before the grand jury, which is still in session.

The Astorian says: It looks like a clear case, and it does not seem at all likely that the girl will be detained, as she appears to have been justified in doing what she did. Oodby will probably have a little hearing of his own before the grand jury.

EMMA ABBOTT.

Something of the Great American Artist and her Company—The Repertoire for Portland

The announcement that Emma Abbott, the famous and popular prima donna, is coming, has already created a perceptible tremor of excitement, and from the present indications the opera season by the Abbott company will prove the great musical and fashionable event of the season. Proud indeed must be the position of the artist who has her coming awaited with such eager expectation as is shown by the legion of admirers of "Honest Emma" in every city in the United States where her proposed visit is announced. Beyond a doubt Emma Abbott stands to-day the most universally beloved and esteemed prima donna and favorite on the English operatic stage. That she fully deserves her wonderful success is readily accorded by surveying the list of artists that she each year brings before the public and the brilliant and varied repertory of operas which she presents with every accessory that insures artistic and enjoyable performances. It is beyond the pale of memory to recall those who have ever attempted successfully the production of so great a variety of the grandest works of the great composers in the English language as has Emma Abbott. She has proven that our tongue is not an insuperable obstacle to the enjoyment of the opera of the grand old masters, and for that more perhaps than anything else has received the grateful acknowledgment of the public. Her companies are always composed of the best artists to be found in English opera. She always carries her own excellent choruses and grand orchestras, which form an ensemble perfect and complete in every detail, and in every instance presents her operas with a completeness that baffles rivalry.

Among the leading artists are, of course, first, Emma Abbott as the bright particular star; Lizzie Armandale, the dashing contralto; Ida Consul, brilliant prima donna; Mina Bertina, Eloise Mortimer, Marie Hindle, rising young artists of pronounced ability; Bertha Fricke, charming contralto; Senor Michelena, the Spanish lyric tenor; Montegriffo, the dramatic tenor; Beaumont, second tenor; Pruette, the famous baritone; Broderick, the brilliant basso-profundo; De Ano, basso-cantanta; Ellen, comedian and buffo-baritone.

The company will begin their engagement at the New Market theater Monday, January 31, and will produce during the week "La Traviata," Verdi's incomparable setting to the story of "Camille;" Flotow's sparkling opera, "Martha," Verdi's grand "Il Trovatore," Gounod's immortal opera, "Faust," Donizetti's melodious and brilliant opera, "Lucretia Borgia," Petrella's beautiful "Carnival of Venice," and the Japanese opera, "Mikado."

The sale of reserved seats will commence Monday morning, January 24, at 9 o'clock, at D. W. Prentice & Co.'s.

A FALL OF FIFTY FEET.

Almost Miraculous Escape of a Heavy Man who Fell to the Bottom of a Well.

Mr. George A. Larrabee, whose arrival at the St. Vincent's hospital last week for medical treatment was noticed in THE OREGONIAN, is in a fair way to speedy recovery. He was able to leave the hospital on Saturday in a carriage, and before this week closes is likely to be out on crutches. There have been doubts expressed that a man weighing 180 pounds should fall fifty feet and escape with his life.

The facts are these: He had recently dug a well about sixty-two feet deep, and from that depth driven a pipe till abundance of water was obtained. To prevent accidents from caving the well was curbed with lumber three and a half feet square from the bottom up. At the time of the accident he was standing on a board about ten feet below the surface putting in the curbing. His assistants were at the windlass above passing down curbing to him and sand to fill in solid back of the curbing. As they swung a box of sand (weighing probably about 150 pounds) in position to lower it, the rope broke, and the loaded box struck the board on which he was standing, and carried everything with it.

Mr. Larrabie says he heard the sharp shout of warning, "Look out!" and at the same instant the crash at his feet. The next thought that passed through his mind was, "death is inevitable." At the bottom was an ordinary pump that had been used for testing for water, also the driven pipe stuck up about two feet. Had he fallen upon either the result must have been more serious. There can be no mistake in regard to the distance he fell. Mr. J. B. Knapp assisted in taking the measurements before ordering a deep well pump of sixty feet, which arrived on the ground a few hours before the accident.

As proof that there was no blundering or carelessness on his part, it should be stated that a short time before the accident he moved his staging higher, and in doing so he felt a strong apprehension of danger, which he had never experienced before in the well, and he drove extra nails in the brackets, and when he placed himself on it he held himself by the windlass rope and jumped up and down on it to see that it was perfectly staunch. His feet and one of his ankles were badly bruised, and he had a slight scalp wound. It was at first supposed that one ankle was broken. The accident occurred late on Monday after all the boats had passed up, so it was at least twenty hours before he arrived at the hospital.

INQUIRIES FROM THE FROZEN EAST.

Farmers by the Hundred Anxious to Come to Oregon Information in Demand.

Comparatively short crops, the usual and destructive cyclone and hail storm, drouth, and all this followed by an unusually severe winter, which commenced in the first week in November, has turned the attention of great numbers of the farming population of the states of Iowa, Dakota, Kansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Nebraska, Missouri and Texas to the claims of Oregon as an immigration field, set forth in the literature of the state board and the exhibition made by the journeying car. Never since the organization of the board has there been such a demand for their printed information as has characterized the present month. These requests come not only from hundreds of individuals, who recount their reasons for getting away from the present cold country, but from writers who tell of whole neighborhoods ready to pull up and out for Oregon.

The managers of railways having direct western connections write to say that there is a continual inquiry at their offices for information about Oregon and request literature to answer it fully. The last mail brought to the state board a letter giving the names and addresses of thirty-eight people, all farmers in one county, who propose to start for Oregon by the middle of March. Within the last ten days half a dozen similar letters have been received and replied to by the board. In that time a score of new-comers, each one of whom represent a number of people in the "states," have visited the board rooms and gone into the interior in search of homes.

To any one watching this work, reading these letters, and listening to those who visit the board, it means a very heavy immigration during the coming year.

RECEIVERS' RIGHTS.

Judge Shattuck Delivers an Opinion in the Holladay Case.

He Holds that Joe Holladay and Geo. Weidler Cannot Vote themselves Directors in the Oregon Transfer Company.

Yesterday morning in the state circuit court, Judge Shattuck delivered the following opinion:

The State of Oregon ex rel. Kiernan vs. Joseph Holladay, George Weidler and James Steel.

This is an action to determine the right of the defendants to hold the office of directors in the Oregon Transfer company.

The complaint shows that Ben Holladay was the owner of a majority of the stock of said company, and that the defendants Weidler and Holladay are receivers in a certain suit, wherein Ben Holladay is a party, and as such receivers claimed to own said stock and the right to vote it at the annual meeting of stockholders, and by virtue thereof the right to hold office as directors in said company, and did vote themselves into the office of directors although they hold no stock in said company in their own right.

It is admitted that James Steel holds fifty shares of said stock in his own right, but was elected by the vote of Holladay and Weidler as receiver.

The defendants demurred, and the questions raised and discussed upon the argument are:

First—Whether or not these receivers, having no other title to or control over any stock in the company, except that confined by their appointment as receivers, were entitled to vote the 1049 shares so held by them.

Second—Are they eligible to the office of director, not holding any stock in said company in their own right?

The counsel for defendants claim that the stock books are conclusive of the question as to who may vote, and that the entry in the list of stockholders of the names and description "Joseph Holladay and George Weidler, receivers,* * certificate No. 13, shares 1049," is sufficient proof of the ownership of those shares to entitle the parties named to vote them. It is claimed that the word "receivers" is merely descriptive, and for the purposes of the annual meeting does not affect the relation of the persons themselves to the shares designated.

The counsel also claim that the right to vote the shares and the right to hold the office of director are correlative, and that whenever the former exists, under our law, the latter necessarily follows. It is also contended that a receiver is a trustee and holds in and to the property committed to his charge the title of a trustee, and consequently if he holds in his official capacity stocks in an incorporated company, he may exercise and enjoy in respect to such stocks all the rights and privileges of any other trustee, and authorities are cited to the effect that if the property coming into the possession of a trustee, consists of stocks in a corporate company, he may attend corporate meetings, vote and hold office by virtue of such stock. (Perry on Trusts, § 331.)

On the other hand, the counsel for the relator denies most of these propositions. He contends that a receiver is not a trustee in the sense in which the term is applied in the authorities cited, that a receiver has no ownership of the property put into his possession and no title, further than such a special or qualified ownership as will enable him to protect the property against trespass or larceny. He likens the functions of a receiver to those of a sheriff in the execution of a writ of attachment in an action at law. Should a sheriff levy a writ of attachment on certificates of stock and take them into his possession, he might and should safely keep the same to answer the exigencies of his writ, but he would have no right to procure the stock to be transferred to his name on the books of the company and thereupon vote himself into the directory of the corporation. So it is claimed the authority and functions of a receiver are limited, and that he cannot lawfully vote the shares of stock in his possession, much less by virtue of such possession of certificates hold office in the company.

On the precise question here in dispute, the books, so far as counsel or myself have been able to find, furnish no distinct authority. No case has been cited or found where a receiver has availed himself of his possession of stock in a corporation to put himself into office in such corporation without having any other title or claim to stock than that derived from his receivership. There may have been many such cases, but they have not been contested and reported so far as I am able to discern.

The counsel for the relator also contends that the inspectors of election may go back of the entry in the stock book, and if a name found therein has any description like "trustee," "receiver," "agent," etc., he may inquire for whom the apparent stockholder is trustee, receiver or agent, and that if these inquiries show that the stock represented is such as cannot lawfully be voted, or that the person claiming is legally incompetent to vote, then the inspector may and should reject the vote of such stock.

This state of the controversy makes it necessary to examine the general rules applied in analogous cases.

It is to be borne in mind that according to the allegations of this complaint Ben Holladay, before the appointment of a receiver owned this stock, and it stood in his name on the books of the company, and that he has not assigned it, nor parted with the title to it in any other way than as that effect has been wrought by the order appointing the receivers, and by the general rules concerning receivers in equity. The apparent transfer on the books to the names of "Joseph Holladay and George Weidler, receivers," has been the act of the receivers themselves, under their claim of authority as receivers.

There is some diversity of statement in the books concerning the title to the litigants' property, which is acquired by a receiver. In Massachusetts it is essential that the appointment of a receiver does not change the title to, nor create any lien upon the property, but that the purpose of the appointment is like that of a preliminary injunction to preserve the subject matter till the rights of all parties may be judicially determined. (High on Rec., sec 5, 107 Mass., R. I.

In New York, where the subject has been largely considered, the practice appears formerly to have prevailed when a receiver was appointed in aid of a creditor's bill, to require the debtor to execute to the receiver an assignment of all his property and effects, and while it was held that as to personal property the title passed to the receiver by virtue of his appointment alone, and the formal assignment of such property was only a matter of convenience, yet as to real estate it was seriously doubted whether a formal assignment was not really necessary. By reference to the case of Porter vs. Williams, 9 New York, R. 142, I think it will appear that the rule finally adopted in that state, to the effect that the appointment of a receiver in supplementary proceedings, when completed, vests in the receiver title to the debtor's effects, real as well as personal, without formal assignment, has been adopted upon the authority of the statutes of that state, which have in terms provided that any receiver in equity may take and hold, without formal assignment, real estate as well as personal property upon such trusts and for such purposes as the court may direct, and may sue for the possession of such property in his own name, etc.

Other authorities hold that the property of litigants in cases where a receiver is appointed is in the custody of the law—the receiver is the mere "hand of the court"—is the executive officer of a court of chancery in much the same sense as a sheriff is the executive officer of a court of law, and that the assets and property in the hands of a receiver are as much in the custody of the law as if held on and under a writ of attachment or execution.

In this state the statute has made no provision for an assignment of property to a receiver, nor declared what title a receiver shall take or have in property committed to him; nor specified the functions of a receiver further than that he is a person appointed by the court to take charge of property, and to manage and dispose of it as the court shall direct.

I, therefore, on this state of the law, am of the opinion that in this case the receivers are not to be held owners or proprietors of the stock in question, but must be regarded as to such stock the proxies of Ben Holladay, the owner. The order of the court appointing the receivers and empowering them to take, manage and retain this stock until discharged by the court did not divest Ben Holladay of title to it, but suspended and took away from him for the time being the right of control over it, and this order constitutes a perfect legal proxy to the receivers to vote and manage this stock and nothing more.

If there was no provision of law limiting the right to be a director to stockholders, Joseph Holladay and George Weidler, receivers (as proxies for Ben Holladay), might elect Joseph Holladay and George Weidler directors. But the incorporation law requires that none but stockholders shall be directors, a qualification which, upon the view I take of the case, is not possessed by these parties.

I therefore conclude that as against Joseph Holladay and George Weidler this complaint is good and that the demurrer is not good, and that as to James Steel the complaint is not good and the demurrer is well taken; that H. W. Corbett and Geo. H. Flanders and James Steel being stockholders, having secured 1040 shares, a majority of the stock of this corporation, were duly elected, and as to the other parties named in the prayer of the complaint that they were not elected, because they did not receive the number of votes required by the by-laws.

Proceedings of the City Council—One Mill for the Fire Department—New Water Company—Notes.

A regular meeting of the common council was held last night, Mayor Rafferty in the chair.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

REPORTS.

From the board of fire delegates recommending that an additional tax of one-half mill be levied for fire purposes. The amount now set aside is about $1100, which is insufficient to make repairs and keep up the expenses of the department. The city needs 1000 feet more of hose that a fire may be handled. There should be hose enough for the steamer to throw three streams of water. The matter was referred to committee of the whole.

The council went into committee of the whole on this matter.

PETITIONS.

From James Frainey, contractor, for the improvement of Division street, between Tenth and the city limits, representing that the work is nearly completed and asking that further time (nine days) for the completion of the work be granted. Petition granted.

From D. H. Hendie, asking for the correction of a $500 assessment on his personal property, on the ground that he has no personal property. Referred to the city attorney.

From H. A. Emken and others residing in McMillan's addition, asking that a street lamp be placed on the corner of Second and A, in McMillan's addition; granted.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

Committee on current expenses recommended that the bills presented at the last meeting be paid. Adopted and warrants ordered drawn.

Committee on landings and wharves recommended that the ordinance to license wharfingers be not passed. Adopted.

From street committee, recommending that a scow load of gravel be procured in filling holes at street intersections. Committee was instructed to procure the gravel.

REPORT OF OFFICERS.

The recorder reports that the city surveyor and street committee have accepted the contract of W. Jacobson for the improvement of blocks 21 and 22 and lot 5, block 2; contract of A. H. Johnson, for improvements of block 1 and lots 6, 7, 8, in block 2. Due notice of the filing of acceptance having been published and no objection having been made to such work, recommend warrants be drawn for the work; adopted and warrants ordered drawn.

From the city marshal, calling attention to the bad condition of the city pound. The pound is full of mud and otherwise in a bad condition. The matter was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

The mayor stated that the city attorney was unavoidably absent and asked further time for him to report on salaries; granted.

ORDINANCES.

Ordinance granting J. B. David and J. C. Moreland the right to supply the city with water and lay mains along the roadways; referred to committee on fire and water.

An ordinance to license wharfingers; not passed.

An ordinance declaring the probable cost of improving that part of Division street from the east side of Tenth street to the city limits, and the proportionate share thereof for each lot, etc; second reading; referred to the recorder and city attorney.

An ordinance to establish the grade on N street from Thirteenth to Twentieth, and also at intersections of P and Q from Sixth to Ninth; referred to committee on streets and public property.

An ordinance to change the grade on N street, from Ninth to Twelfth; referred to committee on streets and public property.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

Murphy moved that the board of fire delegates be allowed one mill instead of one-half mill, as at present, and that the charter committee be instructed to make such increase in the charter amendment. He said the present allowance for fire purposes was entirely inadequate to supply current demands, and allowed nothing for repairs or anything else. Portland was allowed one-third of the tax levy for her fire department, while this city gets only about one-eighth of the levy, and unless the requested increase was allowed the department could not be kept up; adopted.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The mayor stated that the city attorney, judiciary committee and himself, to whom was referred the amendment of the city charter and the Fifth street bridge judgment, would ask a postponement of action until the adjournment of the legislature, as it was expected the tax levy would be raised so as to pay off the bonded indebtedness.

A resolution was read instructing the recorder not to draw a warrant for the Northern Pacific Lumber company until after the report of the charter committee; adopted.

Notice was read of the change of grade of Fifth street at its intersection with Jackson street at one and a half feet above the grade now established.

Murphy moved that Grant engine house be finished in accordance with present plans and specifications. He said this would raise the building about fourteen feet, and with a brick basement the company would have very comfortable and commodious quarters. At present the engine house was five feet above the road, and it was difficult getting the hose cart out and in. The location was good, and the building should be completed. Motion amended to read "as soon as funds are available;" adopted.

The street committee was instructed to investigate and report what it will cost to get a servicable pair of horses for work on the streets and use in the fire department.

Moved that the city attorney be authorized to settle with O'Kean and Fay in the matter of the improvement of J street, on the warrant; motion lost.

Murphy stated that Water street was still loaded down with lumber and that the roadway was being damaged. A motion was made to take proceedings against Mr. Hogue for not moving the lumber; motion was lost, it being deemed the duty of the city officers to look after that matter.

MONDAY, Jan 17

Overland receipts include 275 rls barbed wire, 75 bxs bottles, 72 cs boots and shoes, 4 cs underwear 4 cs flannels, 3 bls 8 cs c p goods, 1 cs neckwear, 3 organs.

Str Santa Maria, at San Francisco 11th inst from Yaquina bay, landed 3395 sks wheat, 2000 feet lumber, 6 bdls skins, 0 478 sks potatoes, 277 bbls, 799 bxs apples, 50 sks oysters.

The supply of wheat in sight in the United States (exclusive of California and Oregon) and Canada is given by telegraph January 17 as 62 836,506 bushels, a decrease for a week of 519 183 bushels, and the first decrease for the present crop year. Last year at this time the supply was 57,118,183 bushels, and the decrease for the week was 662,137 bushels. The first decrease noted last season was for the week ended December 26, and it was 61,495 bushels. The 1885 crop United States wheat was 357,000,000 bushels, and the 1886 crop 453,000 000 bushels. The visible supply a week ago was 63,345,689 bushels, the highest figure for the season, and the highest figure reached last season was 58 432,389 bushels on January 2d.

The official statement by the San Francisco produce exchange of California grain and stocks at the turn of the year is at hand. It does not show stocks on hand one year ago, but with that exception, gives comparisons back to 1878. Wheat stocks with 1884 only show an increase over present ones in the past six years. Barley stocks are now larger than at any time noted. Oat stocks are below any previous statement for the same time and far below most comparisons. The stock of beans, corn and rye are generally large. Below is a few comparisons

	Flour bbls.	Wheat ctls	Barley ctls	Oats ctls.
Jan. 1, 1887	89,605	7,812,850	2,590,250	47,400
July 1 1886	102,325	1,252,600	114,850	31,150
Jan. 1, 1886	No report.
Jan 1 1885	187,830	15 852,210	1,933 260	784,710
Jan. 1 1884	172 280	6,735,720	2 434 150	149,330
Jan. 1, 1883	158 893	8 381,879	1,941 465	118 650

The wheat stock now is larger than estimated by many, and the barley stock figures are a great surprise, being largely in excess of requirements. Wheat and flour, reduced to wheat, furnished a stock of 404,083 tons. Exports since July 1 last have been 463,448 tons, and local consumption 350,000 tons. Stock on hand July 1 last and receipts from Oregon since, foot up 91,850 tons, leaving an apparent 1886 crop of 925 681 tons. Experience has shown the invisible supply to be usually sufficient for local requirements and the January visible supply available for shipment. If the invisible supply now is as large as usual, those who estimated a total crop of 1,000,000 tons will not be far wrong.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 48 hours 10,373 ctls wheat, 2804 bbls flour, 3654 ctls oats, 608 ctls millstuff, 1301 sks potatoes, 3719 lbs hides, 16 cs butter, 38 cs eggs, 758 bxs, fruit, 19 pkgs dried do 83 sks onions, 40 cattle, 310 sheep. Also from the eastern section, 5410 ctls wheat, 420 bbls flour, 300 otls millstuff, 3725 lbs hides, 50 hogs.

IMPORTS—From San Francisco per str Columbia included 35 hf 187 bbls 100 bxs 670 sks sugar, 8 bbls 17 cs 52 sks coffee, 2430 sks salt, 25 pkgs tea, 10 sks 818 mats rice, 450 sks beans, 150 kegs pickles 348 cs canned goods, 21 cs extract, 12 cs baking powder, 11 kegs fish, 44 bbls meal, 35 cs candles, 6 cs paste, 55 cs spice, 273 bxs soap, 25 cs mustard 35 otes chocolate 100 cs sauce, 1 cs candy, 3 sks nuts, 6 hf bbls 36 cs butter, 1 cs cheese, 42 cs honey, 94 bxs fruit, 232 bxs oranges, 7 pkgs vegetables, 81 bxs seed, 25 cs codfish, 230 sks malt, 30 cs lemons, 15 cs limes, 30 kegs 5 bbls vinegar, 26 cs dried fruit, 44 pkgs raisins, 15 bls rope, 9 bls twine, 20 bls duck, 304 bls bags, 2 cs hats, 101 cs boots and shoes, 26 bls broomcorn, 21 cs paint, 24 bxs glass, 5 drums soda, 25 bbls rosin, 384 bars iron, 100 sks coal, 65 cls wire, 51 kegs shoes, 1616 kegs nails, 11 bxs tobacco, 44 cs cigars, $5483 treasure. Also for Astoria, 22 hf 20 bbls sugar, 5 pkgs tea, 70 mats rice, 40 sks beans, 78 cs canned goods, 100 bxs soap, 36 cs paste, 74 bbls meal, 2 bbls hams, 4 tins matches, 93 sks malt, 1 cs butter, 21 bls rope, 112 bls twine, 11 cs hats, 18 bdls iron, 23 kegs nails 1 cs cigars.

WHEAT—While the foreign markets are hardly steady, those of this country are steady to strong. The American visible has shown the first decrease of the season, and it is so marked as to promise a steady decline. San Francisco is again higher, the very dry weather over California forcing up prices. This promises to have some effect here, for prices here now are below parity with that market. Holders of valley last week were rather willing sellers at about $1 40, but new advices will tend to raise ideas. Walla Walla is in very small receipt, with none reported selling.

OATS—Receipts mostly for shipment, and very liberal, several quite large lots coming. Some of the largest interior holders are anticipating a higher range, and hold back. For good shipping 47@48c is quoted, with more occasionally had here in a small way.

POTATOES—Larger receipts noted to-day. The shipping market continues steady, which makes a ready market here at about $1 15.

ONIONS—Less doing under advices.

EGGS—The general quotation is 22½c. Stocks only fair and receipts not heavy.

CHICKENS—Firm with a good undertone. Supplies do not promise to be large.

CANNED GOODS—Some dealers asking an advance for corn, tomatoes and peas. Higher prices for several varieties are promised.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Dr. McGlynn a Great Favorite with his Parishioners.

THEY REPUDIATE DR. DONNELLY

President Adams, of the Union Pacific, Writes a Letter—An American Citizens in a Spanish Dungeon.

NEW YORK, Jan 17.—A very serious state of affairs exists in St. Stephen's Roman Catholic church owing to the removal of Rev Dr. McGlynn and the appointment of Rev Dr Donnelly in his place. From the present outlook Father Donnelly will not be able to conduct services. The choir has refused to sing, the chancel boys refuse to perform their duties at any mass when Father Donnelly is the celebrant, the ushers and collectors have all resigned, as has also the sexton of the church and the women who had the care of the altar, and who performed other services gratuitously under Dr McGlynn for many years, have refused to do any more work until Dr McGlynn is reinstated. This morning the priest who celebrated early morning mass had to open the doors, and had the church all to himself. It was Father Donnelly's intention to announce himself as the priest of the church yesterday, but on account of the manifest feeling he postponed the announcement until next Sunday. Many church members declare he will then be forced to abandon the services. Several anonymous letters of a threatening character were received by Father Donnelly this morning. A noticeable effect of the general discontent in the church was the failure of any of the parishioners to contribute flowers yesterday to decorate the altar. It was the feast of the holy name of Jesus. The chancel has always been decorated on this day, but owing to absence of women who formerly took care of the chancel, even the lights on the throne where the sacrament stood were unlighted for the first time in twenty years.

STANDING BY FATHER M'GLYNN

NEW YORK, Jan 17—About 5000 of the late parishioners of Dr McGlynn the suspended pastor of St. Stephen's, gathered about the building this evening in response to a call to express sympathy with him. The great chootroom in the basement was crowded while many were unable to gain admission. Resolutions were unanimously passed, many of those present listening to their reading with streaming eyes, reciting their love for the deposed priest, the outrage to their feelings occasioned by what they considered his past treatment, appointing a committee to wait upon Archbishop Corrigan to request his reinstatement, pledging themselves not to contribute a penny toward the support of the parish while ministered over by the new rector, Dr Donnelly or until Dr McGlynn is restored to the pastorate.

After this was done word was sent in by a messenger for the meeting to disperse, as pastor Donnelly had sent for the police to clear the hall. As the people filed out on the sidewalk a squad of police came up with drawn clubs.

Many Catholics and others not members of St. Stephen's parish, also held a meeting in Cooper Union to endorse Dr McGlynn, and the large auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity. The meeting was under the auspices of the central labor union, which is chiefly made up of the followers of Henry George. Addresses were made in which it was stated that Dr McGlynn had been made the victim of Tammany hall, objecting to foreign interference into our political affairs, and quoting from Catholic writers to show that the land theories of Henry George and Dr McGlynn were not new nor anti Catholic. A long series of resolutions were passed reciting in the preamble the causes which led to the suspension of Dr McGlynn, quoting Archbishop Crooks and Bishop Nulty in support of the people's ownership in the land, and to the affect that the ecclesiastical authority has no right to prescribe or proscribe politics.

CATHOLIC PROTESTS

The resolutions continue: "As Catholics loyal to our religion and its highest interest, we protest most emphatically against any attempt to extend the ecclesiastical authority into the sphere of politics, and while cheerfully yielding full obedience to the authorities of the church in the matter of religion, we emphatically deny the right of the pope's propaganda, or of the archbishop to prescribe for American Catholics, lay or clerical what economic opinions they shall express or what line of political action they shall pursue or abstain from, and we denounce any attempt to inflict ecclesiastical penalties upon an American citizen, lay or clerical for political speech or action, as a dragging of religion into politics that is both scandalous to the church and dangerous to the principles of American freedom, and we further protest against Dr McGlynn's summons to Rome to account for his political opinion and action as an attempt to establish a dangerous precedent that an American citizen can be questioned in a foreign country for his course in American politics."

A resolution also pledged him all the support in the power of the meeting, moral and material.

A STATEMENT FROM THE ARCHBISHOP

NEW YORK, Jan 17—The Tribune will to-morrow publish a letter in which the writer says Archbishop Corrigan told him that the suspension of Rev Dr McGlynn was not on his own responsibility, but that the order came from Rome.

A CORNER ON TURKISH PRUNES

NEW YORK Jan 17—The Commercial Bulletin says: The market for Turkish prunes continues to excite the interest of the entire trade. The 6 cent point, the price they were expected to attain has been arrived at and the advancing tendency of the market has not been checked. The situation is regarded as stronger than at any time in the past. It is generally conceded that speculators have matters pretty well their own way. At Trieste the market has been excited by operations of a syndicate here, and it is difficult to obtain free offers of stock. The syndicate now claims to possess control of the world's stock of Turkish prunes and they announce the action they propose to take in governing the future market. They intend working in the interest of all dealers and will arrange matters so that all will be protected. They will lead off immediately with an offering of 1000 casks, in lots of not less than 100, at 6 cents and will enter into an agreement with the buyer that no sale in less quantity or at a less price will be made, the seller to forfeit $50 per cask upon proof of any such transaction. Following the placing of the first thousand, a second thousand casks will be offered at 6¼ cents and so on in lots of 1000 by half cent advances until the price of 10 cents is reached, after which time it is believed the stock will be small and further governing will be unnecessary.

THREE PERSONS SUFFOCATED BY GAS.

TROY, N Y, Jan 17—Last night a police officer was told by a restaurant keeper at 493 River street that he and his family had been stupefied from the effects, as he predicted, of fuel gas which entered their apartments. The gas company building is near by. The gas was shut off and an examination of the houses in the neighborhood was made. In one room of a tenement house three persons, Wm Gilfillan, Ida Bennett and Caroline Bennett were found dead, sitting about the room, as they had been conversing when the gas overcame them. Their bodies were taken to an undertaker's room and the coroner notified. Other families in the neighborhood were aroused and ordered by the police to leave their houses. A leak in the pipes which run through the district was probably the cause of the accident, the gas being odorless.

Twenty other persons were more or less affected in the same locality. The survivors say they experienced drowsiness and sickness at the stomach. The authorities are investigating the matter and a special meeting of the common council has been called to take action. The company has shut off the gas from its main and will not supply customers until it can make gas that is not odorless.

GEN. GRANT'S LAST PAY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—Last summer Mrs Grant received two checks from the treasury department one for $120, being three months extra pay due her husband as lieutenant of the Fourth infantry in the time of the Mexican war, and the other for $62 50, arrears of pay for the last month of the general's life. As one of the checks serves to recall the services the general rendered during the Mexican war, and the other the deserved action by the government in placing the general on the retired list after he had met with the misfortune which led to his death, Mrs Grant thinks the money too sacred to be used in any other way than as an offering toward the building of a monument to the memory of her husband. She has therefore sent the checks to the Grant Monument association.

TRAMPS BURNED TO DEATH.

LOUISVILLE, Ky, Jan 17—At 2 15 A. M to-day, as a special freight train of nineteen cars, loaded with cotton, was pulling into Paducah, Ky on the line of the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern railway one of the cars was discovered to be on fire. The crew endeavored to extinguish the flames with hose attachments. All they succeeded in doing however, was to prevent the flames from spreading to the other cars. While removing the debris of the burned car, two dead bodies, charred beyond recognition, were discovered. They are supposed to have been tramps whether white or black it is impossible to say. The car was locked at Memphis, but the men must have entered to their horrible fate through the window in the end, which could be opened from the outside.

BREAK IN A FAVORITE STOCK

NEW YORK, Jan 17—Excitement was caused on the stock exchange to day by a sudden break in Richmond & West Point terminal stock, which has been one of the most prominent stocks on Wall street for several months. Under manipulation of the Sully party the stock last week advanced from 40 to 60 and to day sold at 53. At this point it seemed to be very strong but suddenly it began to decline and in a short time was selling at 46, a fall of 7 per cent. There were many rumors afloat to account for the drop, but the one which was generally believed was that an injunction had been procured to prevent the proposed issue of $4,000,000 of new stock.

POLITICAL.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS WIN.

INDIANAPOLIS Jan. 17—Judge Ayers, of the civil court this morning gave his decision on the proceedings against Lieutenant Governor Robertson. He held that the court had jurisdiction in the case, and also that there is no provision of the constitution whereby a lieutenant governor can be elected at any other time than when the governor is elected—that is once every four years. Inasmuch as the election was not constitutional the proceedings could not be contested. As the election was not provided for by the constitution and the statutes he granted a writ of injunction against Robertson, to restrain him from presiding at the joint convention Wednesday. In conclusion the judge said he assumed jurisdiction and made the decision he did so that there could be an appeal to the supreme court at once. He believed that upon such an important question the opinion of that court should be had.

THE UNION PACIFIC.

Charles Francis Adams Writes a Somewhat Wrathy Letter to Washington.

BOSTON Jan 17—President Adams of the Union Pacific Railroad company has addressed a letter to the chairman of the house committee on Pacific railroads, of which the following is a copy:

BOSTON Jan 17, 1887

Hon J W Throckmorton chairman of the committee on Pacific railroads, United States house of representatives, Washington, D C. Dear Sir—I see by the papers that the house of representatives is now considering the expediency of an investigation into the past history and money transactions of the Pacific railroads preliminary to a final adjustment of the relations between those companies and the government. It has also been asserted that the companies will strive to avoid such an investigation. I do not want the position of the Union Pacific upon this point to be misunderstood. While as a matter of business expediency, the company is most anxious to reach a final settlement with the government, it also wishes it to the end that it may put a stop forever to those vague and scandalous assertions which are now made a pretext for further delays, affording infinite possibilities for stock manipulation. The interests of thousands of persons and whole regions of country thus become the football of any schemer or gambler who has access to the columns of some journal willing to increase its circulation by setting forth forgotten scandals of ancient history as new and startling disclosures. What the Union Pacific, as a business corporation, does object to is that delay which will keep it and its securities in a position to be bandied to and fro between Wall street and Washington the prey of intriguers and speculators. The government of the United States is by far the largest creditor of the Union Pacific, which, as a debtor, at once willing and able to pay in full if dealt with on recognized business principles, thinks it not unfair to ask its principal creditor not to let itself be used by competitors and stock jobbers as an instrument with which to injure the business resources and impair the credit of the debtor from whom the payment of the last penny is still to be exacted. I respectfully but confidently submit that to allow itself to be so used is neither justice nor business nor fair play.

I have the honor to be CHAS F ADAMS President

IN A SPANISH DUNGEON

The Experience in Cuba of a Prominent Merchant of St. Louis

ST LOUIS Jan 17—Meyer Kaufman a well known commission merchant arrived in this city yesterday from Cuba after an experience there which he will not soon forget, and for which he will ask the United States to demand of the Spanish government the sum of $50,000.

Kaufman left this city in the early part of last month for Mexico, and when at Vera Cruz obtained a passport to Cuba for himself and an interpreter named John Fura. Immediately upon his arrival at Havana a Spanish officer approached him, and without explanation of any kind lugged him off to jail and locked him up. It was some time before he comprehended the situation, but he explained as best he could that there was a mistake somewhere. He did not at first mind the matter, thinking his explanation would result in his release in a very short time.

Two or three days passed and he was still confined in jail, having no place whereon to lie but the flagging of his cell, and being furnished with nothing more substantial in the way of food than the prison fare of bread and water.

He learned that the charges against him were that he had swindled merchants in the City of Mexico to the extent of $27,000. He had been arrested as a man named Meyer, and the clue upon which the Spanish authorities went in the arrest was furnished by his first name and the fact that the swindler was of the same race as himself.

Twelve days and as many nights Kaufman was confined in the Spanish dungeon and after the first few days found himself well nigh starved and stiffened with sleeping on the rough stone flagging. An officer at last arrived from Mexico who, after examining him declared he was not the man he was looking for. On this the Cuban authorities permitted his release and he was sent off without a word of apology or explanation.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Three Men Perish in a Burning Hotel at New Westminster, B C

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 17.—A dispatch has been received here from St Paul via New York, which states that fire broke out in the Arlington house at New Westminster, B C, yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, and the structure being constructed of wood was soon one mass of flames. Three guests, unable to escape were burned to death. The names of the victims were Thomas Mackay, contractor of the Fraser river lighthouse, George Campbell, of Sherbrooke, Quebec and Rufus Brown, fence builder of the Canadian Pacific railway.

VICTORIA, Jan. 17—Early Saturday morning the Arlington hotel at New Westminster burned to the ground. Two men George Campbell and Rufus T Brown were burned to cinders. Thomas McKay jumped from a third story window and was fearfully mangled. His feet were driven through a wooden sidewalk, where he was held and roasted before the eyes of the onlookers. The fall must have instantly killed him. The building was an old wooden tinder box and collapsed in fifteen minutes. The other inmates escaped in their night clothes. The building and furniture were insured. The fire is thought to be incendiary.

CALIFORNIA.

THE CABLE CAR STRIKE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 17—Since the explosion on Post street on the line of the Sutter-street cable road, last week both the Sutter and Geary street cable roads have run with little to break the monotony of daily business. No demonstration against either road has followed that explosion and to day there were few policemen to be seen along the lines. At the office of the Sutter-street road it was considered improbable that any special difficulty would be experienced in running the cars regularly from this time on. Judging from the number of passengers on several cars this forenoon, travel on these lines was better than it was last week, while yet the cars were not filled. The striking carmen continue to run vehicles drawn by horses and have increased the number which they had last week by purchase, and their energies seemed to-day to be principally devoted to running their line, which was well patronized. It is believed that at least one of the men arrested for alleged complicity in the wreck of the dummy on Post street will be convicted. The evidence against him is said to be strong enough to warrant that belief on the part of the authorities. With a larger reward it would be an easy thing to get such evidence as would lead to the conviction of all the persons concerned in the recent outrages. A reward of $10,000, in the opinion of the police, would put a summary end to all violence, and would reveal and bring to punishment those who have been engaged in acts endangering life and property.

FIRE IN A LODGING HOUSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 17—At 8 o'clock to-night fire broke out under the Sumner house, corner of Sixth and Mission streets, in the rear of J Hasterlick's cigar factory. The fire spread to the front portion of the factory, used as a store, and shot up through the ceiling into the rooms above the portion of the building facing Sixth street. The loss is about $7000, insurance not known.

A Genial Restorative.

Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are emphatically a genial restorative. The changes which this great botanic remedy produces in the disordered organization are always agreeably, though surely progressive, never abrupt and violent. On this account it is admirably adapted to persons of delicate constitution and weak nerves, to whom the powerful mineral drugs are positively injurious. That it initiates those processes which result in the re-establishment of healthful vigor is conspicuously shown in cases where it is taken to overcome that fruitful cause of debility, indigestion, coupled, as it usually is, with biliousness and constipation. Thorough digestion, regular evacuation, and abundant secretion are results which promptly and invariably attend its systematic use. It is, besides the best remedy against malaria, and a first rate diuretic.

THE ANARCHIST'S BRIDE.

Pretty Miss VanZandt of Chicago who is to Wed Spies.

HER RELATIVES DISINHERIT HER.

A Dime Novel Story that Comes by Telegraph all the Way from Pittsburg, Pa.—The License Refused

PITTSBURG, Jan 17.—Upon the receipt of associated press dispatches from Chicago stating that Mrs John Arthur, the aunt of Miss Van Zandt, had telegraphed from that city to marriage clerk Zegur forbidding him issuing a license for the marriage of the young lady to Spies, the anarchist, a Commercial Gazette reporter called upon the lady at her residence in Oakland to ascertain the attitude of Miss Van Zandt's friends in regard to her course of conduct. Mrs Arthur seemed heartbroken. To the reporter she said, "I spent nearly the entire Sabbath on my knees in prayer for that infatuated girl, and when I opened the paper this morning and saw that Mr Eugene Zegur, the Chicago marriage license clerk had refused to issue a license so that she could not marry, I thanked God for what seemed a direct answer to my prayer, and then the next thing I did was to send a telegram to Mr Zegur thanking him for his manliness and courage in daring to refuse the license. The first intimation which her relatives had of the existing state of affairs was the announcements in the papers Saturday morning last."

The shock to Mrs Arthur and to her distinguished father and mother can be readily imagined, especially as Miss Van Zandt's mother, who is the only sister of Mrs Arthur, had been visiting her parents and sister just two weeks previous and with the exception of jokingly remarking that Nina expected to marry some nice young man in the spring had made nothing known and had not given them the slightest hint in the true direction. On reading the news so great was the prostration of Mrs Arthur's father Mr Wm B Clark that Mrs Arthur was obliged to write to Van Zandt a message he wished to send. The letter was mailed by 10 o'clock Saturday morning, imploring them to prevent the wedding. This was closely followed by another and the Van Zandt family were informed that henceforth they were not to be considered in the light of relations every connection socially and financially was dissolved forever, and Miss Nina utterly disinherited.

DISINHERITED

"She will receive no more than our dog lying there on the rug. Every dollar will be bequeathed to charitable purposes," said Mrs Arthur, as she wiped the tears from her eyes. "This morning a letter was received from Mrs Van Zandt from Chicago written before the receipt of those sent from Pittsburg in which she informs her relations of Nina's approaching marriage to Spies, the anarchist, and invites them to be present at the ceremony which is to be performed on Thursday in the jail in Chicago adding also that she and Mr Van Zandt could find no fault in the man and had given their full consent to the nuptials, and that she hoped the friends here would not worry themselves."

"This letter," continued Mrs Arthur, "which shows Nina's parents to be as highly blamed as Nina herself only made father and all of us more firm in the determination to disown the family forever."

"I fear," continued Mrs Arthur, "that it is her bright way of talking that has led her into this. She never saw Spies until that day in the court room. Then she probably visited him in the jail and an exchange of words and sentiments led to this, but we cannot account for that complete infatuation unless she and her father and mother have all gone clear crazy, and we think they have. If Nina is an atheist now she certainly was not last summer as she contemplated at that time joining the church." Mr. Clarke will positively refuse to have anything more to do with the family. If the marriage takes place not a dollar will be expended for the release of the condemned anarchists. Mr Clarke is lying seriously ill at his elegant residence in Oakland, prostrated by the news of Miss Van Zandt's intended marriage, and the family fear he will not recover.

THE TELEGRAM TO THE LICENSE CLERK

CHICAGO Jan 17—Marriage license clerk Eugene Zegur received the following dispatch this afternoon from Pittsburg:

"Issue no license to Miss Van Zandt and Spies to be married. We forbid the marriage.

MRS JOHN ARTHUR.

After reading the telegram Zegur said: "I shall refer the matter to County Clerk Wulff and act under his instructions. Personally I do not think the license should be issued." Zegur added he understood that the lady sending the telegram is Miss Van Zandt's grandmother and is quite wealthy.

WHAT MISS VAN ZANDT SAYS

CHICAGO, Jan 17—The interview with Mrs. Arthur as telegraphed from Pittsburg, disinheriting her, and telling of the prostration of her grand father, was read to Miss Van Zandt this evening. The young lady exhibited considerable passion. "I consider it an unwarranted outrage, there now!" "I consider that [illegible] unwarrantable interference," she said. "[illegible] will not deter me in the least." Miss Nina [illegible] that she was about to publish a book over [illegible] name which was to be a history of the [illegible], written by himself and prefaced by herself.

Clerk Zegur, who refused to issue the marriage license said he thought Miss Van Zandt was the victim of the ready wit of Spies and his counsel, that Miss Van Zandt did not love Spies nor Spies her, but the real affinity is between Miss Van Zandt, who has nine dogs, and Mrs. Capt Black, who has sixty dogs. He thought the object of it all was to create sympathy for Spies and provoke the clemency of the governor. Clerk Zegur said he should go to Spies and represent the matter to him in this light. In thus dragging down to his own disgrace an innocent girl he showed himself lacking in all the instincts of honor and manhood.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

CANNOT ESCAPE THE GALLOWS

WASHINGTON, Jan 17—A decision was rendered by the supreme court of the United States to day in the murder case of John Hayes, plaintiff in error, against the state of Missouri. Hayes was tried in the criminal court of St. Louis in 1882 for the murder of one Muller, on the 26th of August, 1881. The jury found him guilty and he was sentenced to death. He has brought his case to this court by writ of error, upon the ground that the law of Missouri provides that in capital cases in cities having a population of more than 100 000, the state shall be allowed fifteen peremptory challenges to jurors while elsewhere in Missouri the state is allowed in such cases only eight peremptory challenges. This provision of the law the prisoner maintains, operated to his disadvantage in the trial in St. Louis and was a denial to him of the "equal protection of the laws" enjoined by the fourteenth amendment to the constitution. This court holds that allowing the state fifteen peremptory challenges in capital cases tried in cities containing more than a population of 100,000, is simply providing against the difficulty of securing, in such cases, impartial juries in cities of that size, which does not exist in other portions of the state. So far from defeating, it may furnish the means of giving that "equal protection of the laws" which the fourteenth amendment declares should not be denied. There is nothing in the legislation of Missouri on this point, which is repugnant to that amendment, and the judgment of the supreme court of the state is affirmed. The opinion is by Justice Field.

PROTECTION DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, Jan 17.—A conference of protection democrats will be held to-morrow night, at which it is expected representatives will be present from the tobacco and fruit brandy interests. A bill is said to be nearly completed which will considerably reduce the surplus revenues, and which will be placed before those present to-morrow night, It repeals all the tobacco taxes if it does not repeal altogether, the tax on fruit brandies, repeals the tax on alcohol used in the arts, adds certain articles to the free list and reduces the duty on others. The most notable case in which it is proposed to reduce the customs duty is in steel rails where duty is to be lowered from $18 to $12 or $11. One of the most prominent protection democrats said to-night that the duty on steel rails is prohibitory and that steel manufacturers combine and keep up the price of steel rails several dollars above what it should be.

MANNING A CONFIRMED INVALID.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—The Tribune's Washington special of January 16 says: It is difficult sometimes to account for the violent denials officially issued at the treasury department whenever the statement is made in the public prints that Manning is far from being a well man. The truth is that Manning is at present a figurehead merely. Manning sees daily a few visitors only, and goes through a form of signing his mail. He has not the physical strength to go through it, and yet he insists upon doing it every day. It is really painful to note the effort with which Manning talks and the hesitancy and uncertainty which mark everyone of his movements, and the pallor of his complexion and the lusterless color of his eye, which belie the "official" and unofficial announcements given out at the treasury regarding his health.

CONGRESSMAN COX'S HEALTH

WASHINGTON, Jan 17—The condition of S. S. Cox is somewhat improved this morning, but he is still quite ill.

Cox is suffering from pleurisy and catarrh of the stomach. He is very much emaciated and his breathing is short and painful. His physicians, Drs. Bliss and Powers, are frequently at his bedside, and while admitting that he is a very sick man, express the opinion that he will recover, if something now unforeseen does not occur to occasion a relapse.

At 3 o'clock this evening Dr. Bliss reported Representative Cox's condition as considerably improved since the morning consultation.

GEN LOGAN'S DEBTS PAID

WASHINGTON, Jan 17—The citizens of Chicago having contributed $13,000 to the fund for the payment of the encumbrances now resting upon the home of Mrs Logan in this city, Col. M. M. Parker to-day called on her, and obtaining from her a check on Riggs & Co, paid off the notes. Later in the day he presented to Mrs Logan the canceled notes and she now owns the house, Calumet Place, on Columbia Heights, free from all encumbrances. The expected movement for a monument to Gen Logan will originate either with the Grand Army post or the Army of the Tennessee. The latter body meets in Detroit in September next, and it is probable the movement will take prominent shape then.

HOME RULE SENTIMENT.

WASHINGTON Jan 17—It is stated that the nomination of Charles W Irish, of Iowa City, Ia., who was designated during the recess to be surveyor general of Nevada vice Christopher C. Powning suspended, will certainly be reported and probably acted upon adversely. The sentiment of the senate in favor of home rule especially in organized states, is strong.

AN ARISTOCRATIC SHOPLIFTER

CHICAGO, Jan 17—A special from Cleveland says: The residents of Akron Ohio are terribly agitated over the arrest here on Saturday evening of Mrs E. Monzerrat, of Akron, on a charge of shoplifting. The lady was in a dry goods store making purchases and the floor walker charged her with stealing. The proprietor examined her cloak and found a bundle of hosiery secreted in it. A detective was called and Mrs. Monzerrat was taken to the station, where the matron discovered several pairs of stockings, kid gloves and other articles on her person. The lady appeared terribly cut up over the affair. She managed to arrange for bail for her appearance to-morrow. Her husband is president of the Cleveland, Akron & Columbus railroad and the family is very aristocratic.
